NOT SO VERY ILL, SAYS HIS HONOR

Indisposition Is Due To Too Much Eating and Enjoyment of French Hospitality, He Asserts.

BY MARY KNIGHT.
PARIS, May 24.—(UP)—France is a marvelous country—even from a hospital bed, Mayor James L. Key, of Atlanta, remarked today as he reclined comfortably in a bed at the American hospital.

Mayor Key, a member of the party of American mayors touring France, was forced to abandon the trip for a week and come here for treatment for stomach trouble.

The Atlanta mayor was much improved today and hospital attendants expressed the belief that he would be able to leave the hospital within the next few days.

Mayor Key was philosophical concerning his ill fortune and he talked at length on France, America and prohibition—throwing in an opinion on the League of Nations and on the probability that the southern states will "make money this year." He was wearing yellow silk pajamas and smoking a long black cigar.

Commenting on the fact that he was the first victim of French hospitality among the visiting mayors, Mayor Key said:

"I'm used to the generous hospitality of the old south, but France is like a second home to me.

"Friends of mine think I should have Dr. Frank Eschridge, my physician, come and prescribe for me, but why should I spoil the trip for him?
Anyway, my trouble is just too great and I don't drink and an excess of hospitality. It may keep me here for a week.

"I think everyone should be compelled to spend at least one year abroad. I have picked up lots of ideas for Atlanta, particularly in regard to public buildings. I was impressed by the permanency and artistry of the French public buildings.

"And then, seeing a country without prohibition, I am convinced that America's crime is, for a great part, due to the dry laws. Prohibition is abominable, but the people will change all that one of these days.

"If the United States would join the League of Nations all this talk of war in Europe would be over within a year."

The mayor took an optimistic outlook on economic problems at home.
"The south is going to make money
this year," he said. "Right now America is paying the bill for 10 years of post-war headache."

MAYOR OF LOS ANGELES ALMOST DRINKS TOAST
BAGNOLES DE L'ORNE, France, May 24.—(AP)—The group of American mayors and their wives who are visiting France today wound up the third day of their tour by dining in the casino of this famed health resort.

The mayor of Bagnoles de l'Orne,
Dr. Le Muet, greeted the officials.
Mayor John C. Porter, of Los Angeles, and his wife, who declined to drink a champagne toast last week, today went through the motions of raising their glasses during a toast but did not taste the contents.

The fashionable resort town of Deauville gave the mayors a big send-off when they left.

"DIXIE" FIGURES IN ROUEN INCIDENT
PARIS, May 24.—(AP)—The Paris edition of the Chicago Tribune tells of an incident which occurred at Rouen yesterday when French organizers of the tour of American mayors unwittingly cut in while the southern officials were giving "Dixie" before a motion picture camera.

The paper said the southern mayors pleaded for more time, but the organizers asked them to hurry. The dispatch said lunch soon put everybody in a good humor.

Three Men Killed When Car Hits Tree

HARTFORD, Conn., May 24.—(AP)— Three men were killed tonight when their automobile struck a tree, turned over several times and came to rest against another tree.

The dead: John Beharrell, 22, owner and driver of the car; Leo Lavine, 18, and Joseph Gagne, 20, all of Hartford.

The car sped past a police patrol and then struck the tree approximately 25 feet ahead of a family of five who were walking on the sidewalk.

CHANGE IN TIME URGED BY ALLEN

Retail Merchants' Presi- dent Cites Other Cities' Satisfaction With Plan.

Urging council to pass the ordinance establishing daylight saving time in Atlanta for the next three months and then to place it on the ballot for a general referendum after it has been given a trial, J. P. Allen, president of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association, Sunday addressed a letter to The Constitution citing the "general satisfaction with fast time where it has been given a fair trial."

An ordinance, offered by Councilman John A. White and other members of the general council, is now pending before the ordinance committee of council for a recommendation, with every indication that council will be given an opportunity to pass on the measure at its next session, June 1.

A public hearing was held on the matter May 14, and petitions representing 35,000 persons, according to proponents, was offered to the committee. At the hearing about 90 per cent of those appearing favored the change.

In calling on council to approve the paper, Mr. Allen cited excerpts from letters from Detroit, Chicago and Macon, which showed that those cities have been pleased with the change, and that some of them have gone so far as to establish eastern standard time after trying the daylight saving system.

He denies that the change would work any hardship on labor, saying "no" a person in the city would be the difference after 24 hours (except that there will be more daylight time in the evening for recreation), because everybody will know its adoption by the clock, eat by the clock, work by the clock and sleep by the clock, regardless of the system of time that is used. He says the retail stores employ 25,000 laborers, who favor the plan.

Text of Mr. Allen's letter follows:
"Editor Constitution: It will be appreciated by the several hundred leading retailers making up the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association if you will publish this letter in The Constitution.

"The recent public hearing on the daylight saving ordinance was the first time since the ordinance was first introduced to Atlanta that association appeared in support of the measure, it was stated by the opponents. The ordinance would be extremely detrimental to Atlanta as a whole. Where is the proof? Atlanta has never tried daylight saving, except under the stress of war times,
so how does anybody know its adoption would be detrimental to the city?
The best evidence available at the present time is the experience of other cities. Let's take a look at Detroit, Mich.

"About 15 years ago, quoting from a letter just received from Detroit:
"The common council of the city passed an ordinance stipulating that daylight saving time as being standard for the city during the summer months. Other cities surrounding Detroit followed that precedent and the course of two or three years this city followed suit."

Helen Ousted by Royal Family Of Rumania, Official Organ Says

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 24.— (AP)—The tangled affairs of King Carol and Queen Helen took a new turn today when the official zarist party newspaper Patria said the mother of Crown Prince Michael is to be excluded from membership in the royal family.

The paper disclosed that War Minister Stephan Bescu has issued a special order to certain regiments forbidding them to observe the annual celebration of Helen's Saint Day next Thursday.

The reason given for the ban was that a special law is being prepared for the new parliament in which the estranged wife of Carol will learn that she has been excluded from the Ru-

MURDER ADMITTED BY 'DREAM-KILLER' TO SAVE MOTHER

Convicted Slayer, Believed Innocent by Police, Confesses Plea of Guilty Was False.

NEW YORK, May 24.—(UP)— Michael Filosa, 28, Brooklyn's so-called "dream killer," convicted of slashing his half brother's throat with a razor while walking in his sleep, confessed today that he did not commit the crime, but that his mother did.

After the killing, Filosa told police he had been to a movie in which a man had a dream in which he ran wild with a knife. He then went home, Filosa said, went to bed and when he awoke found that he had slashed his half brother, Salvatore De Hall, a schoolboy, to death. He had also wounded his half sister, Athena De Hall, and inflicted slight cuts on the face of his mother, Mrs. Anna De Hall, according to the story he told at the time of his arrest.

Authorities Doubt Confession.
Six weeks ago Filosa told his story in court and a jury convicted him of manslaughter. But neither the district attorney nor the presiding judge felt that justice had been done. There was something about the story that sounded incredible, and the judge deferred sentencing Filosa.

Of all the authorities working on the case perhaps the most skeptical was Patrolman Frank Grego, the first man to reach the De Hall apartment after the killing. And Edward Filosa, brother of the accused man, didn't think Michael was guilty. He believed all along that Michael was shielding someone.

At Patrolman Grego's suggestion Edward went to see his brother at the Raymond street jail and had a long talk. Michael said that he expected to get off with a year in jail.
But Edward told him that he was going to "get the limit." Then, police said, he decided to tell the true story.

Story of Mother's Crime.
Michael said that he came home from a movie on late night, November 24. He opened the door of the apartment and found Salvatore lying in a pool of blood on the floor.
Catherine De Hall was lying on a bed, her face slashed. And Mrs. De Hall, Michael said, was running madly about the apartment brandishing a kitchen razor.

He took the razor away from her, Michael said, and cut his thumb by accident. Then, realizing the seriousness of the affair, he decided to shoulder the blame—to claim responsibility. He decided to use the dream story because he had seen the man in the movies do it, and he thought that, by pretending that he had been walking in his sleep, he either would be acquitted or receive a light sentence, he said.

During his trial psychiatrists testified for and against the theory that he had run amuck with the razor while in a dream.

Another Denies Her Guilt.
Following his confession, police arrested Mrs. De Hall on a formal charge of murder. She persistently denied she is guilty.

A picture of the dead boy's body, taken by a police photographer as it lay on the floor of the apartment, was shown to her. She merely hugged it and kissed it. She was

Three Poison Cases Treated at Grady

Several cases of poisoning were treated at Grady hospital Sunday evening.

L. Anderson, of 1208 McLenon avenue, was brought in by his wife, Mrs. Anderson, who said she had overdosed him with morphine. He was considered in serious condition.

Mrs. J. L. Pruitt, of 820 Boulevard
N. E., was treated and dismissed having taken some sort of disinfectant.
Her husband told police that she had been worried and hysterical.

Eugene Lucas, two years old, of 199 Rhinehart street, was treated for poisoning when he swallowed a strong disinfectant. He was released as out-of danger some time later.

Junia Carr, of a Pryor street address, who has been at police headquarters pending charges of disorderly conduct, slashed her wrists. She was treated at Grady and taken back to headquarters.

NOTED PHYSICIAN SLAIN IN GUN DUEL OFFICIALS CERTIFY ELECTION TODAY

Cousin of New York Sur- geon Hunted; Body Is Found on Sand Dunes.

BY H. ALLEN SMITH.
NEW YORK, May 24.—(UP)—A pistol duel on the desolate wastes of the Flatlands sand dunes of Brooklyn is believed to have been the setting for the killing of Dr. Joseph Loughlin, wealthy and prominent surgeon, whose body was found at dawn today.

Detectives, confronted with a slay-ing that contains all the elements of a fictional crime story, started an immediate search for Howard Bridgetts, 20-year-old customs house broker, a cousin of the surgeon and the last man seen with him.

The two men, the detective said, left the surgeon's home late Saturday night, in Dr. Loughlin's expensive automobile after a bitter argument at the house.

They had agreed, police believe, to settle the matter with guns.

Dr. Loughlin and his wife were on the verge of a separation suit, it was learned, and engaged in a violent dispute.

Seven Prominent Americans Given Degrees by Oglethorpe

Bestowal of honorary degrees upon seven distinguished Americans and awarding of diplomas to 50 seniors marked the annual commencement exercises of Oglethorpe University, which took place Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church. Friends of the university thronged the church to the doors and many were compelled to stand during the impressive ceremonies.

Recipients of honorary degrees at the hands of President Thornehill Jacobs were as follows: Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of Harvard University astronomical observatory, doctor of laws; Ivy Leiberter Lee, publicity expert, doctor of laws; Dr. Albert

Edwin Smith, president Ohio Northwestern University, doctor of laws; For-

U. S. STEEL LEADER PREDICTS GAINS IN TRADE ACTIVITY

Farrell Believes Nation Has Passed Worst of Depression and Better Times Are Near.

NEW YORK, May 24.—(AP)— James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation and chairman of the National Foreign Trade Council, expressed a conviction in a radio address tonight that "our worst experiences are behind us and that we are gradually entering upon a period of increasing trade activity."

Mr. Farrell, making his radio debut in the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company's program over a nationwide network, devoted most of his talk to the convention of the national foreign trade eighteenth convention which opens Wednesday in New York under the auspices of the council.

America's recovery, he said, is not entirely dependent upon the solution of problems in other lands.

"We possess within ourselves the power to lead in world trade recovery. This power, to be effective, must be directed to the solution of our domestic situation. If we would aid the world, our efforts must begin at home."

American thought, Mr. Farrell asserted, has been rapidly crystallizing in regard to domestic problems.

"There is a keen desire among leaders of industry to find a means whereby the effects of violent fluctuations in world trade may be neutralized or mitigated in the future. Time and patience are required in the solution of this problem. Unemployment is an economic condition which is a challenge to the constructive thought of modern times."

"The large increase in deposits in our savings banks, to mention but one favorable symptom, shows that we possess within ourselves the power to solve our domestic problems. Much of the delay in the return of buying activity is due to lack of confidence in the future. Discussions which had now been tending to excite fears and apprehensions which have no solid foundation in the facts which testify to the unimpaired economic strength and sound business structure of our country.

"If we would solve our own problems we should avoid controversies that can have no immediate and practical effects upon American trade."

Shot Three Times, Youth Is Near Death

With gunshot wounds in his abdomen, chest and arm, Lloyd Bell, 18, of Fenwick street, was brought to Grady hospital at about 10:15 o'clock Sunday night, and was still in a critical condition at a late hour, doctors reported.

Nothing was learned about the shooting, beyond Bell's statement that it came as the culmination of a dice game, until the arrival of the wounded youth's grandfather, L. O. Mosely, from Dallas, Ga., about 11 o'clock.
He said the shooting had taken place about two miles from Dallas, at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and that Gordon Hulsey, Dallas youth, had been taken into custody by authorities there, pending the outcome of Bell's injuries.

Girl Survives Series Of Amazing Accidents

DENVER, May 24.—(AP)—Miss Helen Stone toppled from a cliff at Eldorado Springs and fell 70 feet into Boulder creek.

Then she was carried over a 20-foot dam.

Unconscious, the young woman was sucked into a whirlpool below the dam.

The current then seized Miss Stone and whirled her 75 feet downstream.
Her body, by a freak of fate, came to rest on some rocks in midstream, where it was found by searchers.

Then a Denver hospital physician said the victim had suffered concussion of the brain but would recover.

$3,000,000,000 Annual Liquor Bill Is Paid by U. S., Wet Body Asserts

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP)— An estimate that people in the United States are spending $2,848,000,000 annually for intoxicating beverages was completed today by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

The research department of the association concluded "The illicit liquor business has become one of America's major industries, surpassing the $2,793,166,812 wholesale figure for passenger automobiles in 1929, and approaching the gasoline expenditure for that year.

Arrest Stirs Coast

Here is a recent photo of David H. Clark, former deputy district attorney of Los Angeles, whose arrest on suspicion in connection with the sensational murders of Herbert Spencer, California newspaperman, and Charles Crawford, prominent politician, has stirred the west coast.
Clark, who recently ran for municipal judge of Los Angeles, has admitted he was in the office of Crawford where the politician and Spencer were mysteriously shot following an hour's conference.

BOROUGH FACING STRICT ECONOMY

Finance Board Must Cull $470,000 From January Measure.

Borough officials today will begin the struggle to balance the June finance sheet and in doing so must cull from the January appropriation measure at least $470,000.

The finance committee will meet at 10 o'clock this morning and begin its operations in an effort to make expenditures come within receipts.

Every department of the government will feel the sting of enforced economy with a possibility that schools will be slashed $135,000 from that set up in the January sheet.
And other departments suffering material reductions.

Members of the Fulton county delegation to the Georgia assembly have been invited to sit with the finance body and assist and advise it in working out a solution to what Alderman J. Charlie Murphy, chairman, and other leading administration leaders consider an almost impossible problem.

Several proposals to increase revenue are to be considered by the committee, but as they all contemplate legislative sanction, and therefore must have the support of the local legislation in the assembly, it has been decided to invite legislators to the committee sessions.

Salary cuts, curtailed service of the various departments or adding revenue is the only hope of balancing the budget, Murphy and his associates believe.

'Am I Butlerized?' Asks Silenced Orator

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—(AP)—
For the second time in a month a prominent radio speaker was cut off the air by a local station tonight for using language considered obscene by officials of the station.

Colonel Vincent A. Carroll, assistant district attorney, speaking over Station WIP-WFAN, was removed 20 minutes before his time was up.

April 25, Major General Smedley
Butler was cut off by Station WELK when he used the word "hell."

Colonel Carroll was discussing communist and socialism at the Hondrian Republican Club's third annual dinner when he was removed from the air. He completed his address before being told he had not been speaking to a radio audience for many minutes.

"What," he said, "you don't tell me I've been Butlerized?"

Officials of the radio station refused to give a statement. "Colonel Carroll was cut off for using obscene language," Martin Thomas, announcer, threw the switch.

NEW YORKER KILLED IN FIVE-STORY FALL

NEW YORK, May 24.—(AP)—Russell Cressman, 42, an executive of a glass company, was injured fatally this morning when he fell or jumped from the fifth floor of his West Sixty-first street apartment.

According to his wife, Ethel, Cressman had been despondent for the last year, and his mental condition was such that he required the attendance of a male nurse.

Foreman Awards
Judges Survey
Work of Artists

Members of the awards committee of the Atlanta Art Association Sunday afternoon surveyed and considered the works of 51 artists entered in competition for the Robert L. Foreman prize of $100 to be awarded the artist who paints in water colors or oils the outstanding picture of some scene in Atlanta or vicinity.

The paintings entered in the competition are on exhibition at the High Museum of Art. Most of the artists seeking the prize are Atlantans, though a number of them are from out of the city. All of the paintings were made in or near the city.

The Foreman award is made by anonymous donors in appreciation for the interest shown by Mr. Foreman in the advancement of art in Atlanta.

The winner of the prize will be announced Wednesday by the art association at its annual meeting.

CHICAGO CORPORATION SHOWS BIG GAINS

CHICAGO, May 24.—(AP)—The Central Public Service Corporation increased assets more than 81 per cent during the last year, and was expended more than 330 per cent in three years, Albert Pierce, president, said in his annual report today.

Total assets as of December 31, 1930, amounted to $364,127,426, against $200,340,680 the year previous; $94,783,455 at the end of 1928 and $34,047,225 at the close of 1927.

FEDERAL BUILDINGS INVESTIGATION BEGUN

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP)—An investigation is under way by the federal trade commission to determine whether there have been any price fixing agreements or illegal combinations among manufacturers and salesmen of material used in government buildings.

Facts surrounding the letting of government contracts will also be included in the scope of the inquiry, the commission said. The source of the complaints which caused the investigation were not made public.

Instructions and Pointers
For Model Plane Builders
In Constitution Contest

BY GEORGE S. HAYMANS JR., Model Airplane Instructor, Camp Dix, U. S. Army, Supervisor of The Constitution's Model Airplane Contest.

Ever since Lindbergh made his epic flight, interest in aviation has boomed. As a result the boys of America have made more progress since 1927 in the building and flying of model airplanes than was made in the 20 years previous to that time. The Boy Scouts, boys' magazines, boys' camps, Y. M. C. A.'s and many other organizations have furthered this new hobby.

Now for the first time the boys of Atlanta will have the opportunity of receiving instruction in the building and flying of model airplanes. As announced Sunday, The Atlanta Constitution will hold a model airplane contest for all boys 16 years of age or under. This will be held at Piedmont park during the first week in June, and a free campship at Camp Dix will be awarded the winner.

Get ready now for this contest. Every boy has an equal chance to win a wonderful summer at Camp Dix for Boys in the north Georgia mountains. Send in your entrance coupon today and watch The Constitution daily for further instructions and information.

Tools and Materials.

You will not need any expensive tools in model building. Almost any model can be constructed with the aid of some sand-paper, a rule and a pocket knife. It is very important that the knife be very sharp. If you cannot secure a sharp knife, mount an old razor blade in a wooden handle and use it for the most delicate operations. A pair of round or semi-round nose pliers for bending the wire parts will be needed.

The most popular and best suited wood for the construction of model airplanes is balsa. This wood is grown in South America and is shipped to this country in large lots for use as an insulation and in airplane construction. It is the lightest commercial wood in the world, being only half as light as cork. The use of this light, strong wood has been the main factor in changing model aviation from the heavy models of five and six years ago to the light endurance planes of today.

All contest models are covered with an imported Japanese tissue. This is very strong and light, and is easily applied to the frame with a thin coat of banana oil. Strong outdoor models can be doped after covering to draw the tissue tight. By all means do not try to dope the wings of light contest models, as the dope will usually draw the wings out of shape.

All joints and construction in model building is made with a quick-drying cement. This cement is oil and water proof and exceptionally strong. It is sold under such trade names as Ambroid and Smaaco Glue. The latter is a colorless cement and makes a much neater model than the orange colored Ambroid.

Banana oil is used to strengthen all balsa sticks and spars, as well as for attaching the tissue to the wing surfaces. A mixture of banana oil and Acetone is the usual composition of all commercial wing dopes.

Practically all the small metal parts are made from tinned piano wire. The most useful sizes are: No. 6 for very light indoor models, No. 8 for endurance tractors, and Nos. 11 or 14 for twin pushers.

Rubber bands are by far the best form of motive power for contest type model airplanes. More power can be stored in it for its weight than any other form of power plant. The most used size of rubber is the well-known one-eighth inch flat. A few strands of this will fly any contest model. Both light and heat cause rubber to deteriorate. To keep your extra motors fresh put them in an airtight and lightproof container. A little powdered soapstone or talc will keep the rubber from sticking together.

An endurance tractor motor of two strands will take 1,000 turns if the rubber is fresh and has been prewound twice for 300 turns. A motor of this type should be stretched to at least twice its length before winding. A six or eight-strand motor used on the twin pusher type model, should take from 750 to 1,000 turns under the same conditions. An egg-beater winder should be used to secure this large number of turns as quickly as possible. Never keep your motors wound up. This will ruin a rubber motor quicker than anything else. Always let the rubber rest before rewinding. It is a good plan to have two motors and use them alternately.

In constructing your model make the wing frame first, according to the plans for the particular model you are building. All balsa parts are glued together with either Ambroid or Smaaco Glue. When the frame is dry you are ready to apply the tissue. First see that all wrinkles are removed and that the paper is big enough to cover the part you are working on. Then apply a generous coat of banana oil to the frame and lay the tissue on. Draw all parts smooth and allow to dry. Trim with a razor blade and point the edges with another coat of banana oil to secure them.

Carving the Propeller.

If you are building a model for a contest, the most important part is the propeller. Follow these few simple rules and your prop will be a success:

Use medium hard balsa. Keep all edges straight. Cut the hub away as much as possible without weakening it. It does no work at all. A coat of model cement will usually help this part.

Follow all lines carefully. The diagram shows how to carve a right-handed prop, one that revolves clockwise when viewed from the rear of the plane. First trace up the balsa block and sand it smooth. Then draw the diagonals on the wide faces and ends (opposite end in opposite directions). At the point where the two diagonals cross, drill the hole for the shaft by pushing a straight pin through. Now carve out the block as shown in the second diagram, following the diagonals closely except at the center where a section at least 1-8 inch wide is left. Line up all parts and glue it from a height of four or five feet. If it makes a long flat glide, it is safe to wind the motor up a few turns and launch the model. However, as is more often the case, the model dives or flutters down. If the model dives, the wing is not giving it enough lift. To remedy this move the wing forward a little at a time until the model glides smoothly. On the other hand if the model flutters down, the wing is too far forward and should be moved back until a flat glide is the result.

Turning to the side can be eliminated by bending the rudder in the case of a tractor, or moving more wing to the side in which the plane turned if it is a twin pusher. A plane should glide smoothly without power in order for it to climb with the correct amount of power. After the model is adjusted, wind it up about half way and launch into the wind. Don't chase or grab at the model—let it land by itself. A properly constructed model will not break if left alone. If the flights don't seem long enough you have probably made the parts too heavy. Try again. Remember, no winner ever quits!

How to carve a right-hand propeller.

How to carve a right-hand propeller. It is very important that the knife be very sharp. If you cannot secure a sharp knife, mount an old razor blade in a wooden handle and use it for the most delicate operations. A pair of round or semi-round nose pliers for bending the wire parts will be needed.

The most popular and best suited wood for the construction of model airplanes is balsa. This wood is grown in South America and is shipped to this country in large lots for use as an insulation and in airplane construction. It is the lightest commercial wood in the world, being only half as light as cork. The use of this light, strong wood has been the main factor in changing model aviation from the heavy models of five and six years ago to the light endurance planes of today.

All joints and construction in model building is made with a quick-drying cement. This cement is oil and water proof and exceptionally strong. It is sold under such trade names as Ambroid and Smaaco Glue. The latter is a colorless cement and makes a much neater model than the orange colored Ambroid.

Banana oil is used to strengthen all balsa sticks and spars, as well as for attaching the tissue to the wing surfaces. A mixture of banana oil and Acetone is the usual composition of all commercial wing dopes.

Practically all the small metal parts are made from tinned piano wire. The most useful sizes are: No. 6 for very light indoor models, No. 8 for endurance tractors, and Nos. 11 or 14 for twin pushers.

Rubber bands are by far the best form of motive power for contest type model airplanes. More power can be stored in it for its weight than any other form of power plant. The most used size of rubber is the well-known one-eighth inch flat. A few strands of this will fly any contest model. Both light and heat cause rubber to deteriorate. To keep your extra motors fresh put them in an airtight and lightproof container. A little powdered soapstone or talc will keep the rubber from sticking together.

An endurance tractor motor of two strands will take 1,000 turns if the rubber is fresh and has been prewound twice for 300 turns. A motor of this type should be stretched to at least twice its length before winding. A six or eight-strand motor used on the twin pusher type model, should take from 750 to 1,000 turns under the same conditions. An egg-beater winder should be used to secure this large number of turns as quickly as possible. Never keep your motors wound up. This will ruin a rubber motor quicker than anything else. Always let the rubber rest before rewinding. It is a good plan to have two motors and use them alternately.

In constructing your model make the wing frame first, according to the plans for the particular model you are building. All balsa parts are glued together with either Ambroid or Smaaco Glue. When the frame is dry you are ready to apply the tissue. First see that all wrinkles are removed and that the paper is big enough to cover the part you are working on. Then apply a generous coat of banana oil to the frame and lay the tissue on. Draw all parts smooth and allow to dry. Trim with a razor blade and point the edges with another coat of banana oil to secure them.

EIGHTEEN CASES AWAIT SUPREME COURT RULING

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP)—Eighteen cases awaiting decision remain before the supreme court and an accomplishment unique in recent years—its calendar cleared of argued cases on June adjournment.

Tomorrow and the following Monday the court will hand down opinions, expecting to dispose of all cases at hand for decisions. It also plans to hold memorial services for the late Chief Justice William Howard Taft and the late Associate Justice Edward Terry Sanford, of Tennessee.

Among the more important cases include a decision on whether applicants for naturalization to be granted citizenship must agree to bear arms in defense of the country; the authority of the federal trade commission to prohibit what it considers untruthful or misleading advertisements by manufacturers; the validity of the Minnesota newspaper censorship law; contested patent rights between the De Forest Radio and General Electric companies over vacuum tubes used in radio, wireless and other communication.

Others are on the validity of rates made by the interstate commerce commission on the shipment of fertilizer material in Alabama and road-making material in Georgia; whether the commission has authority to make rates on shipments from Mexico to San Francisco, and whether Sheriff Thomas W. Cunningham, of Philadelphia, must come to the District of Columbia to stand trial on charges of contempt of the senate committee which investigated the election of William S. Vare, denied a seat in the senate.

KIRKLAND TO LEARN FATE IN FEW DAYS

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 24.—(AP)—Young Virgil Kirkland may learn within 48 hours whether he will be electrocuted, sentenced to prison, or freed on charges that he murdered his sweetheart, Miss Arlene Draves, at a Gary "gin party" last autumn.

With all testimony concerning the fatal party and the ensuing "death ride" of Miss Draves completed, attorneys tomorrow will begin their closing arguments. Each side has been granted six hours, during which the prosecution will demand that Kirkland pay with his life for the death of the girl and the defense will insist that he be freed on the ground that Miss Draves fell while intoxicated, striking her head on a concrete floor and dying from the effects thereof.

FLORIDA LEGISLATORS FIGHT EXTRA SESSION

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 24.—(AP)—The Florida legislature tomorrow will renew its efforts to avert an extraordinary session for solution of the state's finance and taxation riddle.

On one side of the state capitol, the senate scheduled study of two bills proposing taxation of intangibles as a means of relieving real estate. Leaders of the house of representatives, which Saturday concluded a two-weeks' study of revenue, tax, banking and education measures with slight progress along the lines of revenue and taxation, hoped to continue study of such legislation.

ALTO CRASH IN HOES! FOUR DIE IN HIGHWAY

Victims of Accidents Rushed to Macon Hospitals From Perry.

MACON, Ga., May 24.—(P)—Four persons bound from Florida to their homes in Ohio and Pennsylvania were more or less seriously injured late this afternoon when their sedan was struck from behind by another automobile on the national highway five miles south of Perry and overturned. The injured, all elderly people, who were brought to Macon and admitted to a hospital are:

R. J. Heabler, 2020 West Boulevard, Cleveland, Ohio, injured spine, severe shock.

Mrs. E. J. Heabler, broken rib, severe laceration of the lip, minor bruises.

William Harrington, 323 Second street, Monongahela, Pa., fracture of both hands, torn finger tip, cuts on the face; may lose one finger.

Mrs. William Harrington, injured spine and severe shock.

The sedan, driven by Mr. Harrington, was hit by an automobile driven by C. M. Peavy, of Pinehurst, Ga., according to reports.

Mr. Peavy were four young women and another man. None was hurt in the Peavy car. Mr. Harrington's sedan was badly damaged.

Mr. Harrington was driving at a moderate speed, it was said, and as Mr. Peavy manipulated his car to pass the sedan a truck loomed up in front of the two automobiles.

The Peavy car, which was in the rear, struck the Harrington car, and the latter was thrown overboard.

The injured persons were treated by Perry physicians and brought to Macon later in the afternoon in a private ambulance. The condition of none of them was regarded as critical, physicians said.

YOUTH, HIT ON TRAIN, SUGGERS TO INJURIES

MACON, Ga., May 24.—(P)—Weaver Willis, 19, of Phenix City, Ala., died today at a private hospital of injuries he received early yesterday morning when he was knocked into a ditch from a speeding freight train by a law-haunting waterspout near Reynolds. With two companions he had left his home in Phenix City, Ala., a few hours earlier for Fort Valley, where he intended getting a job packing peaches.

One of the companions, George Smith, Jr., who was struck on the head by the spout, remained unconscious at the hospital today, where his condition was reported serious.

The other, Ben Willis, 17, younger brother of Weaver, received cuts and bruises and was not admitted to the hospital.

Willis was picked up by a passenger train and taken to Macon early Saturday morning. His left arm was badly mangled, and was amputated a few hours before he died. His mother, Mrs. W. H. Willis, was at his bedside where she had been for 15 hours waiting with slight hope.

FUNERAL RITES TODAY FOR ACCIDENT VICTIM

VALDOSTA, Ga., May 24.—(P)—The body of Willie D. Wilkes, who was killed in an automobile wreck near Lake City, Fla., Saturday afternoon, was brought here last night from Lake City, and funeral services will be held at the Baptist church here tomorrow morning.

Mr. Wilkes was killed when the car in which he and his wife, little daughter, and sister, Miss Elizabeth Wilkes, were riding, turned over. He was almost instantly killed by an injury to his head.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wilkes. He was in the employ of the Federal Land bank and he and his family were on their way to Miami.

He is survived by his wife, parents, three brothers, Glidens Wilkes, of Atlanta; Ernest Wilkes, of Atlanta; James Wilkes, a student of Mercer University, and two sisters, Mrs. L. R. Hutchinson, of Valdosta, and Miss Elizabeth Wilkes, of Valdosta.

Mrs. Wilkes suffered a broken collarbone and injuries to an arm and limb. She was brought home last night.

RUSSELL A. PEEPLES, OF VALDOSTA, PASSES

VALDOSTA, Ga., May 24.—(P)—Russell A. Peebles, prominent young businessman of this city, died at an early hour this morning.

Mr. Peebles was the son of the late R. A. Peebles, a member of one of the old and prominent families of Valdosta, and widely known in fire insurance circles. Since the death of his father he has been at the head of the fire insurance firm of R. A. Peebles & Sons, which was founded about 60 years ago and is now in the hands of the third generation.

Mr. Peebles went on a fishing trip Saturday and when he returned home complained of pains about his heart and a physician was called. When he was called this morning it was found that he had passed away during the night.

Funeral services will be conducted by Rev. J. P. Dell at Sunset Hill cemetery Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Mr. Peebles is survived by his mother, Mrs. R. A. Peebles, and his wife, Mrs. R. A. Peebles, Jr.; two young daughters, Eliza and Louise; one sister, Mrs. H. Duke, and two brothers, Harry W. Peebles and Thomas Peebles, all of Valdosta.

KENNESAW FARMER INJURED IN MARIETTA

MARIETTA, Ga., May 24.—H. C. Davis, 70, a farmer near Kennesaw, was struck by an auto driven by a man giving his last name as Meeks, and was injured.

Mr. Davis was driving his car at moderate speed and Davis probably didn't see his auto because of another car which blocked his view. No charges were made.

Father Ill, Son Tells Of Secret Marriage

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., May 24.—Earl Yancey, well-known Cartersville citizen, who recently suffered a stroke of apoplexy, is now considered out of danger by the attending physician. When news of his grave illness became known, a message was sent to his son, Reuben Yancey, who resides at Hoboken, Ga. The son and Miss Mildred Harold, of Eastman, were married in February, but the event was kept a secret, until the groom learned of his father's illness, when announcement of their marriage was made, so that his bride could accompany him to Cartersville. Reuben Yancey was a member of the Cartersville football team during his high school days, graduating with the class of 1928.

IT HAPPENED IN GEORGIA

Mrs. J. L. Carter, of Millen, Ga., entered a more serious condition at August 8, when she was taken to the hospital by S. H. Cress & Company. She wanted to buy some goldfish. While examining the small cyprinids, a goldfish bowl fell on Mrs. Carter's head. A jury in Richmond superior court awarded her $5,000 damages last Friday. She had asked for $10,000.

John M. Denmark, of Savannah, wanted to move a gallon jug of kerosene from one to the other of the two rooms he called his own. It was dark and he carried a kerosene lamp, lighted, in one hand and the jug of kerosene in the other. He stumbled and the lamp broke. Flame and spilled kerosene came in juxtaposition. The fire department was called out and now Mr. Denmark says his entire worldly possessions consists of the clothes he wears.

Mayor Thomas Gamble, of Tybee Island, has ruled that it is perfectly all right if folks want to take sun baths in the altogether on the beach. The naked sun bather has been done inside a "solarium tent," and that the bather of the tent be securely pegged down. The mayor promises to furnish sufficient civic protection to guard users of the "solarium tents" from all Peeping Toms except possibly curious aviators.

SONG LEADER SUFFERS FATAL HEART ATTACK

OCHILIA, Ga., May 24.—(P)—Professor W. J. (Uncle Billy) Royal, who has devoted many years of his life to the teaching of singing in Irwin county, was stricken with a heart attack while directing songs at commencement exercises of the Mystic High school this morning, and died at 11:30 o'clock.

Professor Royal, who was 81 years old, was born in Worth county, and moved to Irwin county 40 years ago. He was the founder of the Royal Singing Convention, which is held every year at the Royal Tabernacle, at Mystic. The tabernacle was built by "Uncle Billy."

Professor Royal was a member of the Baptist church at Irwin county. He had been in apparent good health until today.

He is survived by four sons, J. A. and T. A. Royal, of Irwin county; C. A. Royal, of Camden county, and B. S. Royal, of Camden county, and a daughter, Mrs. J. M. Sims, of Mystic. Funeral services will be held at the Royal Tabernacle at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning.

NEGRO YOUTH ADMITS KILLING NEAR SMYRNA

MARIETTA, Ga., May 24.—Amos Ferguson, negro, 17 years of age, today surrendered to police and confessed that he killed Henry McKee, 25, negro, who was found shot beside the interurban car tracks Saturday night.

Martin's body was seen by passengers of an interurban car about midway between Smyrna and the river. Ferguson admitted that he had had an argument with McKee, but would not say what it was about. He had thrown a shotgun, the weapon with which Martin was killed, from a young white man of the vicinity, on the pretext of killing a mad dog.

Rev. J. W. Smith, Presbyterian pastor at Fort Valley, will preach the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday. One day exercises in the form of a radio broadcasting program, will be held Friday night.

The music recital of Mrs. J. A. Aycock was given last Friday night. That of Mrs. Louis Camp was on the preceding Friday night. In both music recitals the expression pupils of Blaise Norms Boyce school. The senior play was given May 8.

The first honor graduate of the class of 1931 is Angie Boyce, of the second honor graduate is Kathleen Yancy; the third honor graduate is Montaine Park.

WADLEY SCHOOL EXERCISES NEXT WEEK

LOUISVILLE, Ga., May 24.—The commencement exercises of the Wadley school will be delivered next Sunday morning by Rev. H. P. Bell, pastor of the Second Baptist church, of Augusta. The literary exercises will be delivered next Monday evening by Judge R. N. Hardeman, of Louisville.

The first honor graduate of the Wadley school is Miss Emily Johnson, of Atlanta, will deliver the annual literary address and diplomas will be awarded by W. M. Redman, president of the board of education.

The class of 1931 consists of 20 members, 20 girls and 9 boys. The members of the class go to Elise Barnes, valedictorian, and Elise Finley, salutatorian. Members of the class include:

Clara Atkinson, Lucy Atkinson, Mary Blodgett, Harriet Robison, Elise Barnes, Elizabeth Finley, Elizabeth Glass, Carlisle Hammond, Laura Jinks, Mary Will Jinks, Sara King, Evelyn Kuyler, Edna Land, Adelaide Land, Robert Lane, Kyle McMichael, Merle Merritt, Jane Newman, Park Newton Jr., Edith O'Neal, Charles Redman, Melvin Redman, Max Redman, Mildred Ridgway, Dorothy Ridgway, Helen Stodhill, Fannie Belle Waits, Hazel Whitaker, McKibben White Jr.

SIX VIE FOR HONORS AT McDONOUGH HIGH

McDONOUGH, Ga., May 24.—The class day exercises held at the McDonough High school Saturday marked the consummation of the record of a rare group. The 1931 graduating class of the school has been unusual throughout its career. Six pupils have ranged at the head of the class for years and when a check was made to determine the honor students, the difference between the two highest was less than one-third of a point, and the difference between the two lowest was less than one point.

There were three points variation among the six, Charles Thompson, first; Margaret Turner, second; Clara Atkinson, third; Trellis Carmichael, Mildred Knight and Leone Oglesby, two members of the class. Walter Cook and Sara Brown, will graduate with 19 units each, three above the requirements, and the class, consisting of 40 members, is the largest in the history of the institution.

In putting on the class day program a dramatic form was utilized. "The Glories of Tomorrow." The entire class participated, consisting of Sara Brown, Clara Atkinson, Valerie Davies, W. L. Hooten, Trellis Carmichael, Charles Thompson, Walter Cook, Margaret Bennett, Sara Hooten, Nellie Pendley, Ollie Jeffares, Doris Hooten, Edna Kuyler, Helen Rodgers, Josephine Stansell, Margaret Turner, Louise Tarpley, Jessie Lee Upchurch, John H. Rev. Mr. George Wilson and Paul Burch.

SEVEN TO GRADUATE AT GRANTVILLE HIGH

GRANTVILLE, Ga., May 24.—Annual commencement exercises of the Grantville High school will be held this week. Sunday morning at the Methodist church the commencement sermon was preached by Rev. Mr. George Wilson. Tuesday night will be the graduation exercises.

Twelve Georgia Classes Plan Reunions at Commencement

ATHENS, Ga., May 24.—Twelve University of Georgia classes will hold reunions at commencement here on June 16, it is announced by Thomas S. Gray, alumni secretary.

Plans are going forward for the reunions which will bring a large number of former students of the university to the campus. The classes scheduled to hold reunions, with their chairmen, follow:

1871, Gustavus R. Glenn, 933 Juniper street, Atlanta; 1876, J. A. Tyre, 413 Trust Company of Georgia building, Atlanta; 1881, Judge Charles H. Brand, Athens; 1886, Dr. A. E. Roberts, 1810 Central avenue, Atlanta; 1911, D. J. Tolnas, Athens; 1916, Milton Scott, Decatur; 1921, C. C. Torrance, 7 Delmont drive, Atlanta; 1926, Martin A. Kiser, 701 Hurt building, Atlanta.

The program of alumni activities starts with a business meeting of the alumni society in the university chapel. There will be a preliminary report from the alma mater song committee, a report from the board of managers of the society, and it is expected that the trustees of the university will submit their reply to certain matters which were presented to them last year by a vote of the society. It is also probable that the law school building committee will have an interesting business session. In addition, important business will be laid before the society by the president, Dr. Phinizy Calhoun, of Atlanta, who will open the session with a short address.

In order that all bodies interested in the university may have an opportunity of knowing the action of the society on the matters presented to it, the trustees and faculty of the university have been extended invitations to be present at the meeting.

After the business session, Edwin Camp, of the class of 1902, will deliver the annual alumni oration. His subject is "Competitive Athletics and the Modern University."

At 1:30 the annual alumni luncheon will be given at Denmark hall. The activities of the day will close with dinner and informal reunions of the convening classes.

STATE LAW OFFICERS' CONVENTION THIS WEEK

Two Groups of Georgia Enforcement Officials Hold Session in Macon.

MACON, Ga., May 24.—(P)—Uniform traffic laws, a state bureau of identification and a state police patrol will be studied during the conventions of the Georgia State Sheriffs' and Peace Officers' Association and the County Officers' Association, which meet here Thursday and Friday.

The legislative committees of the two organizations will present bills to be proposed at the next general assembly.

The two associations will be welcomed jointly by Mayor G. Glen Toole at 10 o'clock Thursday morning on the main floor of the Macon auditorium. Responses will be made by Thomas H. Jeffries, of Atlanta, for the county officers and J. C. Stiple, Savannah, for the peace officers. Malcolm D. Jones, judge Bibb superior court, will address the joint assembly at 11:45 o'clock.

Thursday afternoon and Friday each organization will hold separate sessions. Ben T. Watkins, Macon, president of the Peace Officers' Association, and B. B. Lanier, Valdosta, president of the County Officers' Association, each will make an annual address and several committees will report.

In the private session of the Peace Officers' Association, R. E. Viteri, Birmingham, president of the department of justice for this district, will discuss the need of a bureau of identification in this state. W. E. Ireland, superintendent of the state training school for boys at Milledgeville, will outline the work at the school and will discuss juvenile delinquency.

Other speakers will be Arthur Raper, Atlanta, secretary of the Inter-State Commission; R. E. Anderson, commissioner of revenue, and Peter Twitty, Atlanta, commissioner of game and fish. A memorial service will be held during the convention for members who have died since the last meeting.

During the afternoon business sessions, the wives of the visiting officers will be given a tour of the Woman's Club house, Baconsfield park, from 3:30 to 5 o'clock. A barbecue for both organizations will be given at 6 o'clock Thursday afternoon at Lakeside park. A dance will be given there at 8 o'clock.

The entertainment committee will be composed of Emmett G. Smith, Atlanta, general chairman; Ben T. Watkins, T. E. Garrett, W. S. Stripling, W. A. Carroll, J. R. Hicks, Jr., Boyce, and J. C. Stiple, Viteri, E. Roberts, Dan D. Dunwoody and Walter C. Stevens, all of Macon.

DISTRICT CONVENTION OF LETTER CARRIERS

JACKSON, Ga., May 24.—The 27th annual convention of the Sixth District Rural Letter Carriers' Association will be held at Indian Springs May 30, it is announced by Gordon H. Thompson, president. The meeting will assemble at 10 on the state reserve. Business, it is announced, will be the main feature of the program.

At noon intermission a barbecue dinner will be served the carriers and their families.

Officers of the association include Gordon H. Thompson, of Jackson, president; N. F. Land, Jackson, vice president; B. E. Andrews, The Rock, secretary and treasurer. Members of the "Indies" auxiliary, composed of wives of the carriers, will hold their meeting at the same time and place. Officers of this group are: Mrs. T. A. Fletcher, Forsyth, president; Mrs. George T. Pippin, Round Oak, vice president, and Mrs. N. F. Land, Jackson, secretary and treasurer.

Approximately 120 carriers in the sixth district and efforts are being directed toward having 100 per cent enrollment by the date of the convention.

WILLIAM S. RANKIN PASSES AT SAVANNAH

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 24.—(P)—William S. Rankin, past president of the Savannah Rotary Club and prominent insurance businessman of Savannah, died here tonight after several days' illness. Since trouble which culminated in several very critical operations was the cause of death.

He was also prominent in Boy Scout work, having been commissioner here, and was greatly interested in Rotary's work among the boys of Bethesda orphanage. He is survived by his widow, several children, his father, James I. Rankin, and Miss Ruth Rankin, a sister.

Son Has Oath Taken By Father in Sixties

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., May 24.—W. P. Lanier, who moved to Stillborn after selling his farm near Rockmart to the late William Lanier, has an interesting relic of the war days of the '60s. It is an oath of allegiance, signed by his father, the late William Lanier. It reads:

"Georgia—Psalming County: I do solemnly swear, or affirm, in the presence of Almighty God, that I will henceforth faithfully support, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States, and the Union of these States thereunder; and that I will, in like manner, abide by and faithfully support all laws and proclamations which have been made during the existing rebellion with reference to the emancipation of slaves—so help me God."

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 24.—(P)—Physicians tonight reported the condition of President A. E. Clift, of the Central of Georgia railway, as somewhat improved. He is suffering from an intestinal perforation.

FIND LETTER WRITTEN BY JEFFERSON DAVIS

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 24.—(P)—A letter from Jefferson Davis accepting an invitation to attend a banquet of the Savannah Volunteer Guards, held in May, 1866, has been found among the effects of the late Major W. W. Williamson.

The letter was found by Judge George T. Cann, a close friend of Major Williamson. Judge Cann said that the letter would be proffered to the Georgia Historical Society.

It is written in a feminine hand and signed in the handwriting of the president of the Confederacy.

BANKS DENY MOVE FOR LOWER WAGES

Guaranty Survey Declares Alliance To Cut Wages Is Nonexistent.

NEW YORK, May 24.—(AP)—The current issue of the Guaranty Survey, published by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, says statements to the effect that powerful banking interests are seeking to force a general reduction in wages or that bankers are co-operating to bring about such a readjustment are incorrect.

"The imputation from either political or labor sources that bankers have conferred or conspired in this question is not true," the publication declares. "There is no such unity of opinion, and there has been absolutely no co-operative effort on their part to force such an issue."

"It is inevitable that in such a situation as exists certain bankers, as well as many other thoughtful and patriotic citizens, should feel that in a period of general economic readjustment the wages of labor might be involved, as well as those of capital. Such matters are controlled by individual economic principles, and causes which operate regardless of individual opinions or desires."

"The questions of the economic value of high wages and the necessity of lower wages are open to discussion, and upon them bankers differ, as do all other classes."

"The business situation, says the 'Survey,' presents an unusually irregular appearance, with favorable developments in some directions and considerably less encouraging trends in others."

"As far as the actual level of business activity is concerned, recent reports indicate strong resistance to the seasonal influences now tending to produce contraction. Price movements, on the other hand, have been far from reassuring. Both stock and commodity values have declined to new low levels for the depression, creating doubt in some minds as to whether any sustained improvement in rates of industrial output and trade volume can be expected as long as such instability exists in the price structure."

DAVID GOLDWASSER LAID TO LAST REST

Funeral services for David Goldwasser, 67, retired Atlanta merchant, who died early Sunday morning, were held Sunday afternoon at the residence, 636 Capitol avenue, with Rabbi Harry Epstein officiating. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

Coming to this country from Poland 25 years ago, Mr. Goldwasser set up a business in Atlanta that he conducted until 1924, when his health began to fail. His death came after an apoplexy attack Friday night in his home.

He is survived by three brothers, Ben, Atlanta; Mayer, Goldwasser, and Eli Goldwasser, Poland; three sisters, Mrs. Rebecca Kover, New York; Marie Goldwasser, and Gertrude Goldwasser, Poland; his wife, Mrs. David Goldwasser; one daughter, Mrs. A. Brooks, Athens, Ga.; and four sons, Joe Goldwasser, Lehigh, Pa.; Harry Goldwasser, and Isidore Goldwasser.

GOLD STAR MOTHERS ENJOY WARM WEATHER

PARIS, May 24.—(AP)—Parties "A" and "B" of the American gold star mothers on a pilgrimage to France today enjoyed the first real summer weather in Paris, as they went on sightseeing tours of the city.

Both groups will visit the Sacred Heart basilica on the top of Montmartre tomorrow. The "A" group later will go to the tomb of Napoleon.

Mrs. Gertrude Olsen, of Hayti, S. D., who is suffering from intestinal trouble, made some improvement today although her condition remains critical.

SILVER CRISIS DRAWS ATTENTION OF PUBLIC

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The principal news in the silver situation takes the form of two developments. One is a growth of argumentative, popular and political notice of the subject. The other is a shift of emphasis from silver as a commodity like any other metal to silver as a basis for currency. The two developments go hand in hand and the combination has attained a momentum which it is fair to describe as striking.

To suggest that we may have ahead of us a "silver question" to anything like the degree to which we had it intermittently from 1873 to 1896 would be fantastic. Any prudent observer would refrain for some time yet from suggesting that.

Nevertheless we do have the parallels of several of the conditions that gave rise to the long agitation about silver as currency that culminated in the Bryan campaign for the presidency in 1896.

The principal one of those conditions was that we have now, namely, a steep and deep drop in prices of all kinds of goods. When ever that happens it follows that debtors have increased difficulty in turning their commodities into a sufficient number of dollars with which to pay the principal and interest of their debts. If this latter condition is sufficiently prolonged it is fairly certain to give rise to an agitation, political in form, for increasing the quantity of money in the world by making use of silver in addition to gold as the basis of currency.

Such an agitation, when it gets under way, has the character of a mental epidemic. There is no such epidemic now, but there is an increase in, so to speak, the number of sporadic cases. Some of the outbreaks occur in sensationally elevated circles of banking, business politics, and academic institutions.

In the present business depression, the movement for an international conference on silver began as an agitation about silver as a commodity only, and not as a basis of currency. All the early demand for an international conference aimed merely at certain steps by several governments which should have the effect of increasing the price of silver as a mere commodity. One of the steps contemplated was that the British government in India should hold off the market certain quantities of silver bullion which it has in its vaults and which it has been selling. The theory was and is that holding this bullion off the market will tend to permit silver to rise in price. Some other similar steps by other nations were and are contemplated. All these demands had to do with silver as merely a metal or commodity like brass or nickel or paper.

What is just now arising, however, is a quite different thing. It is a demand that silver be used as the basis for currency in the same sense as gold. A few countries, specially China, already use silver as the basis of currency. What is now suggested is that countries which long ago abandoned silver as a basis for currency, countries which have used gold alone for decades or generations, shall now give thought to including silver as an additional basis.

Fixed Value.
The concrete form of the proposal, as put out by some persons having real importance in the world, is that the nations shall agree among themselves that 20 ounces of silver is the fixed and permanent equivalent of one ounce of gold. Thereafter, 20 ounces of silver should serve as the basis for just as much currency, and currency of the same validity, as one ounce of gold. In short, 20 ounces of silver should be completely interchangeable with one ounce of gold. The effect would be to increase enormously the available basis for currency and similarly increase the quantity of currency in the world.

The argument for use of silver is associated with associations that the amount of gold in the world has become, or soon will become, insufficient to serve as adequate bases for the increasing quantity of currency that the world needs to carry on business comfortably. These associations about the insufficiency of gold come from some quite elevated sources of financial thought.

It goes without saying that the great mass of orthodox, conservative financial and business thought in the world would reject utterly the notion of making silver interchangeable with gold in any fixed ratio whatever. If it were thought that the proposed international conference would even discuss such a suggestion, probably most of the conservative thought in the world would combatively disprove holding the conference. The same conservative thought would reject utterly the notion of using silver as a basis for currency in any countries excepting the few in Asia and Latin America which already use it. If the conference is held, as seems likely, the matter will be held strictly down to steps having to do with silver as commodity only.

Nevertheless, the mere holding of a conference dealing with silver in even a strictly limited way will stimulate the kind of thought which looks to silver as a means of increasing the quantity of money in the world. The amount of such thought already active in the United States is impressive enough to cause wonder whether it may express itself politically. The answer depends, as so much of the immediate future of politics depends, on how long the depression lasts, on whether commodity prices remain low, and on whether there is a general and prolonged reduction of

RETAILERS URGED TO REDUCE PRICES

Manufacturers' Group Declares Reductions Would Aid Business.

NEW YORK, May 24.—(AP)—The executive committee of the National Association of Manufacturers today issued a statement asking retailers to make a more equitable reduction in prices to consumers in proportion to wholesale reductions in order to speed up general business recovery. "Anything like a complete return of national industrial prosperity must be delayed until the retailers of the United States reduce their selling prices substantially as much as the decline in the prices they pay for what they buy," says the statement. "We urge the retailers of the country to give serious consideration to the vital problems of national economies."

From January, 1930, to March, 1931, the average decline in all wholesale prices was 23.3 per cent. Yet during the same period the cost of living, as represented by retail prices, declined only 10.3 per cent, less than half as much. Wholesale textile prices, for example, declined 30 per cent, while retail clothing prices fell only 15 per cent; wholesale food prices decreased 28 per cent, but retail food prices have declined only 19 per cent.

There would be even wider divergence between wholesale and retail prices if it were not for the outstanding exceptions represented by a few well-managed and far-sighted merchandising establishments.

When the retail prices have been reduced approximately as much as wholesale prices public buying power will be increased and our mills and factories can resume operations at a rate which will enable them, even with reduced prices, to provide greater employment for workers and dividend payments to thousands of investors.

Dr. Thomas W. Currie, of Austin, Texas, retiring moderator, chairman of a committee appointed at the last assembly to study the question of church union. Dr. Currie's report will contain information as to proposed doctrinal agreements, plans for unity, polity and practice.

Dr. R. C. Anderson, president of the Mountain Retreat Association, which maintains the summer assembly grounds of the church here, and Dr. W. Caldwell, pastor of the local Presbyterian church, will be joint hosts to the assembly.

McLaughlin, of Richmond, Va., is director, and the enlargement of the stewardship committee's work by merging it with the plans and program committee, under the secretaryship of Dr. Roswell C. Long, of Atlanta, Ga.

A new plan for co-ordinating home missions will come from the ad interim committee of the assembly's work committee. It will suggest that synods study the feasibility of eliminating synods and centering inbyteries as the units of operation.

St. Joan of Arc Is Honored in City Of Her Martyrdom

ROUEN, France, May 24.—(AP)—St. Joan of Arc, who was burned at the stake 500 years ago, was honored today in this city of her martyrdom.

Dignitaries of the Catholic church paid homage in ceremonies in the cathedral of Notre Dame.

Visitors from all over Normandy, from Paris and the north of France, flocked in all day to attend the opening of the exposition. During the coming week an elaborate program of ceremonies will continue to draw the crowds.

The fetes will reach their climax next Saturday, the 500th anniversary of the death of the Maid of Orleans at the stake. The American gold star mothers, whose first 1931 group is now in France on a pilgrimage to the battlefields of 1918, have been invited to attend the concluding ceremonies, a week from today, which coincide with the French national commemoration of Mother's Day. The week will terminate with a great cortege of 1,000 participants, clad in fifteenth century garb, in which a young girl of Rouen, in medieval armor and on horseback, will be triumphantly escorted through the streets by soldiers, their uniforms being of all the periods between 1431 and 1931.

GAS HEATING COSTS AT BOYS' HIGH HIT

E. R. Sweet, vice president of the Atlanta board of education, Sunday night said he would move at the next meeting of the board to have the gas heating system at Boys' High school removed and coal substituted. Comparative costs, based on coal and gas records for the past winter show that the latter was about 33 per cent in excess of coal, according to Sweet.

W. W. Gaines, board president, has announced that he would call a special meeting some time during the week of June 1, Sweet said, and added that he would request the president to include consideration of the Boys' High fuel question at that time.

ALABAMA MAN, CHILD DIE IN AUTO CRASH

GADSDEN, Ala., May 24.—(AP)—Howard Rakestraw, 22, and his three-year-old sister, Etta, were killed and their brother, Louis, 20, was believed fatally injured when their automobile collided with a truck driven by C. E. Brooks, of Alabama City, on the Gap road west of here early today.

Mrs. Carrie Rakestraw was uninjured. The Rakestraws were on their way to visit relatives at Sand Mountain when the accident occurred. The truck driver carried the injured persons to a Gadsden hospital.

$200,000 Blaze.

NEW YORK, May 24.—(AP)—Seven fire companies from Manhattan assisted 17 Staten Island companies today in fighting a $200,000 blaze that destroyed four buildings in the lumber yard of the James W. Thompson Company. Fire Marshall Brophy said the blaze was of incendiary origin.

POPE TO PROTEST SPANISH DECREE

Pontiff Is Expected To Make Strong Representations to Republic.

VATICAN CITY, May 24.—(AP)—The Vatican will make strong representations to the Spanish republic against last Friday's religious liberty decree, as it is considered by church officials to be a clear violation of the concordat still in existence between Spain and the Vatican, it was learned tonight.

This question, as well as the burning of church property and the treatment of priests and nuns in Spain, were understood to have been thoroughly discussed by Pope Pius today during an hour and a half's audience with the Spanish primate, Cardinal Segura.

The primate arrived in Rome last night. The report which Cardinal Segura made to the pontiff and any decision which the pope may have taken were kept secret, except the decision to protest to the Spanish government against the liberty decree.

The primate's only public comment so far was a fervent exclamation when he arrived "Pray for Spain." The future plans of the cardinal were not made public. He is expected to remain here several days to give a full report on conditions in Spain and to confer with officials of the state department regarding the church's course.

U. S. Air Armada Roars Northward To New England

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 24.—(AP)—More than 650 airplanes roared out of New York into New England today—the army's answer to the threat of a theoretical enemy advancing by sea upon America's northeastern coast.

The mythical enemy was 150 miles south of Sable Island and was steaming steadily toward New England. In five southern New England airports tonight were poised observation planes, attack planes, pursuit planes and mighty bombers, ready to take off tomorrow to repulse the theoretical threat from the sea.

At the Bowles airport in Agawam, near Springfield, Mass., rested more than 400 pursuit, bombardment and observation planes. Here were established the headquarters for the New England maneuvers with Brigadier General Benjamin D. Foulois in charge.

At the Springfield municipal airport was a group of 43 transport planes. At the Brainerd airport in Hartford, Conn., were 107 planes of 51 planes and at the Boston airport were 41 planes, of which 30 were members of the Ninth Observation group and two army planes which came from Washington during the day.

One of them carried General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, whose arrival marked the first time the chief of staff has flown with the air corps and the first time he had taken personal charge of maneuvers. With him were Major General Fox Connor and Major General James E. Fehet.

FEAR OF REVOLT LESSENED IN CUBA

Country Now Expects Peaceful Settlement of Internal Troubles.

HAVANA, May 24.—(AP)—Threat of revolution which hung over Cuba the past week has been suddenly removed, and the country today looked with optimism toward a peaceful settlement of its political difficulties.

The crisis which threatened momentarily to reach a sanguinary climax is considered definitely over, due, not to stern measures adopted by the government to compel peace, but to the unexpected stand taken by General Mario G. Menocal, twice president of the republic and one of the bitterest foes of the Machado administration. When it seemed as though nothing could avert the threatened uprising, General Menocal, with thousands of followers in the interior of the island, sent couriers into the interior ordering the citizens to lay down their arms.

"The solution can be reached without the shedding of blood and destruction of property, if you have faith in my judgment do not use violence," was his message. Other oppositionist heads, including those of the Union Nacionalista, despite their personal dislike for the man who as president stamped out their 1917 revolution and made many of them prisoners, were quick to follow suit in declaring they did not approve revolt at this time.

IMPLEMENT COMPANY ADDS MOWERS TO LINE

The Evans Implement Company, 569 Whitehall street, S. W., has been appointed distributor for the New Ideal power lawn mower and the Johnson motor scythe.

Both of these mowers fill entirely different needs and are highly efficient. The New Ideal mower is designed to be a golf course putting green mower. This mower is light and with its wide, low front rollers, it will not hurt, nor make ridges in a new or soft putting green. Its other great advantage is that it can cut the fine Italian and English style grasses close to the ground and yet not tear them out by the roots.

The makers of this New Ideal lawn mower added a powerful little motor to it and its seven cutting blades operate at a high, even speed and a large amount of work can be done with it in an hour's time.

This improved New Ideal mower is unusually well constructed, with an aluminum frame and its many ball-bearings make it very easy to control and unusually light running. The Evans Implement Company is backed by the manufacturers in guaranteeing its high speed and successful operation over a long period of time.

The Johnson Motor Scythe differs from the Ideal in that it is designed for the cutting of all kinds of tough weeds and heavy grass, as well as cutting over the ordinary lawn. The machine is guided like a wheelbarrow and has a powerful motor on the right side, with the cutting knives extending out from the left side like the knives of a horse-drawn mowing machine. It is especially useful on slopes and getting close to stones or stumps. Its operation is easy and the motive power is controlled by handle grips, like a motorcycle.

The Johnson Motor Scythe can be of great benefit to railways in keeping their right-of-ways free from objectionable rank weeds and coarse grasses. This is equally true in large orchards and on the farms. It is splendid for golf courses, cemeteries, resorts, airports and large country estates.

TENT AND AWNING BUSINESS ACTIVE

The M. D. Smith Tent & Awning Co., 136 Marietta street, is working over time. In addition to the regular home awning trade in which line they have won such an enviable reputation they are doing an unusually large amount of store and other business house type of awnings. Their outside salesmen are selling many merchants here and elsewhere on the idea that an awning provides an unusual opportunity for the advertiser's standpoint by displaying the trade name or listing the commodities which they sell.

In the awnings for homes this firm is making and installing this year the most attractive designs in colors, stripes and stencil patterns in their more than 40 years of operation and their outside crew is putting up many beautiful and serviceable awnings that add much to the appearance of homes and buildings.

The company has recently shipped large gospel tents to far away Japan, the Canary Islands and several of the large cities on the west coast and in the north. It is known as a canvas firm that can make anything from an orange, peach or apple-pickers bag to the largest circus tent.

The manager, W. Butler, is one of Atlanta's leading citizens and civic leaders and is the son-in-law of the late M. D. Smith, the founder of the company. Mr. Butler has been identified with the company for many years and points out that no line of industry in this part of the country is more vitally interested in Atlanta's centennial world's fair, than the canvas men. He states that their firm will take an active part in helping the 1937 Atlanta exposition be a world's fair that will be a credit to not only the south but the entire nation.

WATER SYSTEMS AID RURAL DEVELOPMENT

During the past 20 years the forced water system has attained much recognition and prominence in the agricultural life of the country and the Myers self-irrigating water system is a large contributor in this development.

The Almand Implement Company, 125 Forsyth street, S. W., began handling a few of these Myers automatic pressure pumps about two years ago. They sold and installed a large number of them and the reaction was so favorable that they placed a large order for the complete line and the manufacturers, the F. E. Myers & Bro. Co., of Ashland, Ohio, appointed them distributors.

Mr. Almand has been selling dairy and farm supplies for over 10 years within 100 yards of the company's present office and has developed into one of the most enthusiastic distributors of the Myers pumps. He says, "Where a Myers water system is installed in any country home, rural school or church, summer or suburban home, dairy, filling station, public or private institution, everyone connected in any way with these buildings can have clean, running water at their finger tip just as easy as the city dwellers—and at any time it may be needed."

"With a Myers system installed," continued Mr. Almand, "the country people or those who live where they have no city water connections, can enjoy all the city water conveniences and at the same time have the added advantage of a better water pressure for their own fire protection, washing cars, dairy, barns, lawn, fruit and vegetable spraying."

"Whatever the requirement, be it large or small, there is a Myers water system that will satisfactorily and economically fill the need."

WORLD PRODUCTION OF AUTOS DECREASES

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP)—World production of automobiles last year was reported today by the department of commerce to have totaled 4,109,331 units, a decrease of 34.6 per cent.

Information from the 17 producing countries showed that although American production decreased 37 per cent from 5,355,420 in 1929 to 3,355,986 last year, factories in this country manufactured more than 14 times as many vehicles as were produced in England, which ranked second.

CONGRATULATIONS FOR FAIR COMMISSIONER

M. D. Gleason, editor of The Constitution's Business Review Page, has received the following letter of congratulations on his appointment as world fair commissioner from Harry C. Zaban, president of the Zaban Storage Company.

"Mr. M. D. Gleason, Atlanta Constitution, City, Dear Mr. Gleason: We want to take this opportunity to congratulate you on your appointment as world fair commissioner, appointment being made by city council at its last meeting. We think that this is one of the greatest projects launched for and by our city. Namely for its marking of the 100th year, thereby revering its founders, Governor Schley and Stephen H. Long.

"Incidentally we feel that Atlanta would be the ideal spot for the world fair due to its convenient location—its ideal and moderate climate in summer as well as in winter—hotel accommodations of the finest kind—our fair ground, established, needing only expansion—good courses of note—recreation parks—points of interest for tourists—and an industrial center as well—last but not least, citizens willing to give the kind of co-operation necessary to assure success to any project.

"We can even now visualize the world-wide interest it would create and bring to Atlanta and the south.

"The Atlanta spirit will prevail and place before the world, the south, Atlanta and its products in its rightful stance.

"My absolute resolve to aid you and co-operate to the fullest extent of my ability, goes with this letter.

"More power to you, and with kindest personal regards, I remain

"Respectfully,
"HARRY C. ZABAN."

MASONITE PRESWOOD IS INTRODUCED HERE

Intensely interesting is the way P. G. Hanahan, of Carolina Portland Cement Company, lumber dealers, refers to Masonite Preswood, a new wood product his company has been handling for the past few months.

Preswood is the natural forest-grown timber that has been reduced to fiber form by a terrific explosion and then formed into broad, smooth, grainless, knotless boards in gigantic hydraulic presses.

These boards are four feet wide and up to 12 feet in length. They are almost impervious to water which, coupled with the fact that the boards are grainless, means that they have little tendency to curl or warp—and, of course, there is no danger or such a board splitting or splintering.

An interesting point in connection with Preswood is the fact that it conserves our national lumber supply, for it is made of the edgings, slabs and short lengths from the saw mills—from material that formerly was sent to the trash burner as worthless. To those interested in the conservation of our natural resources, our forests, Preswood has an exceptional appeal.

But of greater interest perhaps, is the wide range of uses to which Masonite Preswood is being put. It is used for paneling and interior finish in buildings of every character, for built-in cabinets and closet lining, for finishing off basement or attic rooms, for desk, table and counter tops. It is used for the lining of forms in all kinds of poured concrete work.

Hundreds of thousands of feet have gone into the sets and floors of the motion picture studios in Hollywood and the hulls of scores of speedy outboard motor boats are made of Preswood. Lumbermen are speculating on how widespread and far-flung the uses of this board will ultimately be, for seldom a day passes but one or more new uses for Preswood are discovered or developed.

NEW YORK SEEKS AIR TERMINAL

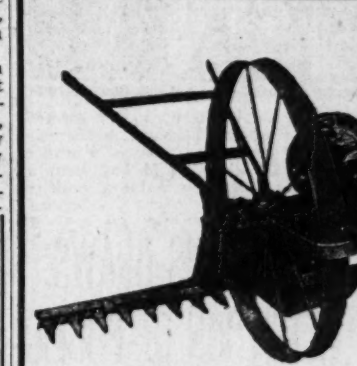

NEW YORK, May 24.—(AP)—The Merchants Association of New York today began a campaign to make the city the western terminal of the trans-Atlantic air mail service for which bids will be advertised shortly by the postoffice department.

Baltimore and Charleston, S. C., are competing with New York for the selection.

In a brief filed with Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, the association argues that New York will provide more mail for the route than any other port, that New York has exceptional airport facilities, that it is nearer to Bermuda than Baltimore or Charleston, and that flying conditions are safer.

Attorney Killed Defending Maid, Police Believe

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 24.—(AP) Police today said William T. Sullivan, socially prominent Milwaukee attorney, sacrificed his life in a vain effort to save a maid at his home from her maddened suitor.

Piecing together the stories of witnesses, officers learned Sullivan was shot down by Fred Reinke, 28, as he attempted to intervene between Reinke and Louise Kammerman, 30. She died today. Reinke committed suicide with the last bullet in his gun.

Miss Kammerman, though struck by five bullets, was conscious when officers arrived and told a connected story.

Reinke came to the door of the Sullivan's North Shore suburban home, she said, stuck his foot inside, and blurted out:

"I have told you before I don't care to do that," she said she answered.

Reinke pulled out a pistol and shot her in the side. Screaming, she ran into another room. Reinke followed, firing four more times.

The story, upstairs with his wife, ran in and rushed at Reinke. The maid said Reinke coolly fired at him. Then he turned the gun on himself.

The maid said she had been keeping company with Reinke since last fall. He came to this country from Germany five years ago, and she three years later. Their affair finally ended with the girl telling him his attentions were unwelcome.

In part it said: "As soon as you get these lines your daughter, Louise, will rest by my side. We loved each other so dearly we promised to marry. Now she doesn't want to keep her promise."

Pennsylvania Redistricting Holds Republicans' Interest

Fate of Pinchot's Presidential Aspirations Hinge on Outcome in Keystone State, Belief.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP)—Political strategists of the Hoover administration were revealed today to be keeping a watchful eye on the congressional redistricting situation in Pennsylvania, where Governor Gifford Pinchot, now regarded as a likeable progressive candidate for the republican presidential nomination in 1932, is reported to be laying plans for vetoing the pending redistricting legislation in the hope of gaining a solid Pinchot delegation to show the republican national convention from the Keystone state.

Whether the picturesque Pennsylvania governor is actually prepared to veto the measure, as reported, no one here is able to say, of course. But the mere suggestion that he is has been sufficient to send Hoover strategists scurrying into old files and precedents with a view of hitting on some policy to meet the situation.

At least two members of the administration's high command—Herbert Lucas, executive director of the republican national committee, and Walter H. Newton, political secretary to the president, are known to be delving into the question, principally with a view of checking Pinchot if possible.

May Decide Issue.

It may easily develop that the outcome of the Pennsylvania redistricting fight may prove to be the deciding factor in the policy which the republican national committee will have to outline in the coming months for the allocation of congressional delegates among those states affected by the new congressional reapportionment.

The state loses two congressmen under the new reapportionment and unless the legislature passes a redistricting bill satisfactory to the governor all 34 of the state's reduced congressional delegation would have to be elected "at large" instead of in separate districts.

On the face of things, with all congressional district lines thus wiped out, it would seem that all delegates to the next national convention, which are usually based on the number of congressional districts (two for each district and two for each United States senator) would likewise be selected from the state at large.

But some of the wise heads of the administration's board of strategy have found, after looking into the subject, that the latter course is mandatory at all. In the absence of any conflicting state statute, the national committee, it has been pointed out, has full authority to make such rules as it sees fit for the allocation of delegates in the various states.

Bi-Party Problem.

And because of the divided state of affairs in Pennsylvania and a number of the other states the committee

Holy Shroud, on View Three Weeks, Replaced

TURIN, Italy, May 24.—(AP)—The Holy Shroud, in which a tradition says the body of Christ was wrapped, was replaced today in its jeweled case in the cathedral here after having been on view for three weeks.

The case was locked today and the key taken by Crown Prince Umberto. The Shroud is a possession of the Italian royal family.

It will take up the problem when it meets here in the fall to select a time and place for the next national convention. The same problem, of course, will have to be taken up by the democratic national committee at a similar meeting to be held in the year. The only difference is that the question has engaged the attention of republicans first because of the Pinchot matter. Not until the meetings will it be definitely known what policies will be hit on for the election of delegates.

It is interesting to note here that Georgia occupies a position somewhat similar to Pennsylvania, in that the state loses two members of the congressional delegation if a redistricting bill must be taken up by the legislature at the forthcoming regular meeting. Should the legislature fail to act, the state's delegation would attach to the manner in which Georgia delegates are to be elected to the national convention of both major parties.

The advantage to Governor Pinchot in having all republican delegates elected from the state at large is apparent. He is standing in the line of the state's long standing fight with the Vire organization in Philadelphia he could not expect the 14 delegates which would be allotted to that city if the delegates are to be elected according to present district lines. On the other hand, should all Keystone state delegates be elected at large, the large majority would be open for him to put up a slate that might overcome the Philadelphia block of votes and return a solid Pinchot delegation.

Easy Matter.

At least four or possibly seven delegates would be elected from the state at large anyway, the four given for the two senators and perhaps a bonus of three additional delegates which may go to the state having voted the republican ticket in the last presidential contest. It would be just as easy to put forth a ticket with all Pinchot backers running at large.

Without a solid delegation from his state back of him, Pinchot, of course, would see his campaign for the presidential nomination weakened. It is pretty generally conceded now that he is in an acceptable frame of mind to accept the nomination in the 1932 convention if progressive support is tendered.

Although Ohio, for example, has failed this year to elect a redistricting bill, the situation there is a little different in that the Buckeye state gains two congressmen instead of losing under the reapportionment. This problem could be simplified by having the additional delegates to which the state is entitled elected at large, in the event no redistricting bill is passed and signed by the governor.

Should Governor Pinchot finally veto a redistricting bill he would not be alone in making a move such as executives. Already redistricting bills have been vetoed by the governors of Missouri and Minnesota. Both Missouri and Minnesota are in the same position as Pennsylvania, differing only in that the former loses three members, Minnesota loses two.

The problem otherwise is the same.

Boon in Balance.

A more important factor is, however, that Governor Pinchot's presidential boom is deeply involved in the procedure adopted for selecting delegates to the national convention. If he is stopped in Pennsylvania, his administration may feel that he will be eliminated as a figure in the next national convention.

What the national committee may do is a matter of conjecture for the moment. Executive Chairman Lucas is now making a survey of sentiment in the committee. Due to the different situations existing in several of the states no hard set rule would seem to apply to all. The event reapportionment is discarded as a basis in those states failing to redistrict, however, it might be possible for the committee to make a scheme for giving each old congressional district two delegates and reducing the number of delegates that otherwise would be allocated at large from states losing representation.

Such a course would effectively checkmate any plans of the Pennsylvania governor for acquiring a solid Jordan tract. It might also precipitate a riot in the national committee.

"DON'T BET ON WOMEN" IS AT RIALTO TODAY

"Woman is man's greatest enemy" and if anyone doubts the wisdom of this time-worn adage a visit to the Rialto theater, where the Fox Movietone picture, "Don't Bet on Women," is playing Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, will quickly convince him and afford him an hour of laughs at the expense of the ladies.

Here is a subtle and sophisticated comedy of love on a yacht and in a drawing room, with Edmund Lowe, the screen's greatest heartbreaker, in the leading role. Co-starred with him is the delightful star, Jeannette MacDonald, who was last seen here in "Oh, for a Man." The cast includes such masters of comedy as Roland Young and J. M. Kerrigan, as well as Una Merkel, who again lives up to her reputation as the funniest flapper on the silver screen.

EDGE'S ADDRESS

Speculation Rife Whether Ambassador Will Touch on Disarmament.

BY JOSEPH E. SHARKEY.
PARIS, May 24.—(AP)—Moral help from the American government and the American people in pushing forward reduction of armaments is generally expected in international circles in Paris.

The opinion is being expressed that American encouragement will be needed if any serious hopes are entertained as to the success of the general disarmament conference at Geneva next February.

As it has been a tradition for American ambassadors in France to make a speech on disarmament on Memorial Day, there is considerable speculation as to whether Walter E. Edge will touch upon the subject in his address during his speech next Saturday at Suresnes cemetery.

The most ardent advocates of disarmament, it is learned, are desirous of more than an agreement to refrain from increasing land and air armaments to result from next year's meeting.

It is believed here that Germany will not be satisfied with such a solution because she has always wanted what she calls a leveling of armaments, meaning reduction of those of the former allies to something approximating those of Germany.

Ministers Denounce Air Demonstrations

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 24.—(AP)—Seventeen ministers of the military aspect of the army air corps maneuvers to be held at this city and Boston tomorrow were preached at three of the local churches this morning, while prayers for the safety of the aviators were offered at Christ Church Cathedral (Episcopal).

Ministers who denounced the air corps demonstrations were: Rev. Owen Whitman, pastor of the Church of the Unity; Rev. Herbert H. Deck, of North Congregational church; and Rev. Fred H. Miller, of Second Universalist church.

Robinson Scores Postoffice Cuts

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP)—President Hoover was assailed today by Senator Robinson for "cutting down on postoffice deliveries" and "decreasing navy personnel."

In a statement through the democratic national committee, the senate democratic leader attacked the chief executive for what he described as "floundering."

"It will be recalled," he said, "that the president early in the panic called to the White House the leaders of industry and labor and sought to bid them all to continue business as usual without reduction of personnel or diminution of output."

"Moreover, we were all exhorted to spend money. The railroads and other big industries were urged to go ahead with construction and repairment projects in order to make employment for as many people as possible. The government was to engage in vast building enterprises, with the same idea."

"Then we find the government under President Hoover's direction cutting down on postoffice deliveries, decreasing navy personnel and generally engaging in just such a campaign of reduction as he specifically bound private industry to avoid."

Robinson also assailed the president's recent statement that "we cannot legislate our way out of a world economic depression."

"If it is true that we cannot legislate our way out of a world economic depression," Robinson said, "then the Hoover-Hoover tariff, which was imposed on the country in the face of national protest and which Senator Watson, the majority leader in the upper house of congress, solemnly assured his colleagues would be lifted within a month of its enactment and which within a year would put us again on the high peak of prosperity?"

Looking to the future, he added, the government must have a policy which will assure a balanced budget each year.

Gordon Mystery Thought Solved

McLaughlin, of the Bronx, and detectives who worked on the case looked on, told a complete story of the killing.

His story, Mulcahey said, had been checked by police and had been confirmed.

The Gordon murder mystery, coming when it did at the height of the inquiry into the conduct of the New York police department, was a story of a city and state into turmoil, for Vivian Gordon, red-haired, attractive, once committed to prison on what she termed a "framing" charge, was a woman of a "framing" charge, was a woman of a "framing" charge.

She was killed the night before she was to testify concerning that framing before Referee Samuel H. Seabury.

She was, therefore, a 16-year-old school girl, Benita Bischoff, came home from school in Camden, N. J., one day, shut the door to her room, and the body of John Bischoff, divorced husband of Vivian Gordon, turned on the gas, and was found dead.

She was the daughter of John Bischoff and Vivian Gordon, who went with the father by court decree after Vivian had been sentenced to prison on a charge of framing.

Benita, who had known her mother only as an artist, an accomplished dancer and entertainer famous in New York, had been brought to the point of suicide by the revelations concerning her dead mother made during the inquiry into the murder.

Pantages Trial Will Open Today

WEALTHY SHOWMAN TO ANSWER CHARGES IN "GIRL MARKET" CASE.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 24.—(AP)—On the eve of the trial of Alexander Pantages, wealthy showman, and others on felony charges growing out of alleged operations of a Hollywood "girl market," defense and prosecution attorneys tonight predicted hot legal engagements over motions by three or four defendants for separate trials.

The trial will open at 9 a. m. tomorrow and although only an hour was allowed on the court calendar for the trial, both sides said it might occupy most of the day.

Pantages, once convicted but later granted a new trial on a charge of criminally assaulting Ennie Prince, a young dancer in Los Angeles, is a co-defendant with Jesse H. Shreve, San Diego businessman, and William Jobelmann and Olive Clark Day. The latter two are alleged operators of the "girl market." Conspiracy and violations of the juvenile court law are charged.

John P. Mills, wealthy real estate man, was accused with the other defendants. He pleaded guilty to two of the lesser charges, contributing to the delinquency of two minor girls, was freed of the other counts, and yesterday was subpoenaed as a state's witness.

The charges had their origin in a hotel party here last October for which the state alleged two 17-year-old girls were obtained from Jobelmann and Mrs. Day.

Motions for separate trials have been filed by Pantages, Shreve and Jobelmann, each contending his interests would be jeopardized by trying the others with him.

Mills also will argue tomorrow a motion for combination of two sets of indictments, one of which involves all the defendants and the other involves only the two girls. Should the motion fail, the district attorney said, Pantages would be tried first.

asked if she thought Michael was trying to escape punishment by putting the blame on her. She replied: "I have nothing to say. I love all my children."

Mills told the district attorney, it is insane, and that she ran wild with the razor during a moment of mental delirium. She has been separated from her husband for several years; he said, and feared that he would get custody of the children. "That is why," Michael said, she killed Salvatore and tried to kill Catherine.

Mrs. De Hall will be arraigned on a charge of murder tomorrow, and shortly thereafter Michael will be arraigned before her, tell his story. Police hope that when she is confronted by her son, she will admit the crime.

7 DEAD, 1 HURT IN AIR CRASHES

Three Killed in Connecticut When Wing Falls Off Passenger Plane.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

While the army was flying planes by the hundreds through New England yesterday with but little difficulty, the score against civilian aviation was different. Seven were killed and one injured in various parts of the United States.

At Wallingford, Conn., a wing fell off Raymond McCorkle's passenger plane, plunging the pilot and his two passengers to death. The passengers were not immediately identified.

A plane spun Guy Strickland and Wayne Putnam to their deaths at Wayne, Neb., when a down current took it.

The most spectacular accident of the day occurred at the top of Nittany mountain, near Bellefonte, Pa., where an air mail pilot, James D. Cleveland, of Cleveland, met his death.

Fog, rain and snow obscured his visibility. He barely missed clearing the mountain. He was burned to death with 1,000 pounds' worth of mail, the value of which was undetermined, when the ship hit the peak.

Captain J. H. Ritter, part owner of an air service at Atlantic City, fell 75 feet to his death in a stalled ship. Some 5,000 persons saw the accident. At Columbus, N. J., William G. Swann, erstwhile parachute jumper, was injured in the crash of a second-hand ship.

OGLETHORPE GIVES DEGREES TO SEVEN

at this time face a grave responsibility and a great opportunity," said Mr. Lee. "An unprepared nation confronts them, for in the midst of plenty there is impoverishment. It is evident that we do not know how to run this great machine of ours, that the individual parts lack co-ordination. It is the task of all you graduates to bring to the rescue of age the vision and enthusiasm of youth. Thousands of men who were prosperous only a few years ago today are seeking in vain for the means of a livelihood. Stoutness of heart and intensity of faith are needed to solve this great human problem."

Mr. Collier, sketching the history of Oglethorpe University since its founding at Milledgeville in 1882, paid warm tribute to the work of Dr. Jacobs, stating that the president had imbued the university successfully with his own high ideals and "breathed into it the breath of life."

"Had I the power," Mr. Collier went on, "I would confer upon Dr. Jacobs here the degree of doctor of advertising and progressive accomplishment."

Need for Education. Characterizing the need of the world for educated people as greater today than ever before, Mr. McCormick declared that "we do not understand by any means the science or the art of living together as a social family. Adjustments are evident on every hand, and what we need is the educated man or woman who is equipped with vision to take his principles out into the world and courageously apply them."

Dr. Smith spoke humorously of the hardships of his own college years 50 years ago, but ended on a more serious note with the adjuration: "Young men and women, go out and, like the sun, bless the world by giving it light."

After expressing gratefulness for the honor which Oglethorpe had conferred upon her, and stating that she regarded the recognition she had received as "the crowning achievement" of her life, Mrs. Gilmer, of Miss Dix, called upon the fund of humor with which she has so often delighted her many readers.

Feminine Education. "I am very much impressed," she said, "by the contrast between this graduation, and the last one in which I participated a good many more years ago than I care to mention. Then we girls thought about our pretty dresses, and practically nothing else."

"Nothing is more indicative to me of the development of a more serious trend than to observe here tonight that more girls than boys have appeared as candidates for degrees in literature and journalism. I think that's fine, for I want to say right here that I regard journalism as the ideal career for a woman. What is a newspaper, anyway, but the aggregate gossip of the world?"

"Much as I have enjoyed my work, however, I must admit that it has had its drawbacks. My advice hasn't always turned out right. Take, for instance, a letter I received from a woman not long ago. She asked me if I realized the harm I was doing in the world. Then she went on to say that she had written me years ago for advice as to how to win the love of a man who would pay her no attention at all. I followed your advice and married the man," she ended up, "Now I wish I hadn't."

"Another woman complained that her reward for following my instructions as to how to be a perfect lady had resulted in her having to sit alone at home now every night, so you see journalism isn't all a bed of roses."

Tracing the gradual vanishing of man's various liberties with the development of civilization in a whimsical little speech, Dr. Shapley predicted that "thought machines" would soon remove even the freedom of thought.

"To be free," he said, "we would have to unclutter ourselves. Under present conditions, some social bondage is necessary, and the best we can do is to see that those who make the rules of that social bondage are educated, sweet-tempered and benevolent."

At the conclusion of the honorary degree presentations, Dr. Jacobs made a brief statement in which he called attention to the courses in college education which Oglethorpe will begin to broadcast June 5 over its own radio station WJTL, named for the donor, John Thomas Lupton, of Chattanooga.

Progress in raising the $3,000,000 fund sought by the university also was reported by Dr. Jacobs.

Honor Students Speak. Paul Bacon delivered the senior class salutatory, and Zaida Elizabeth Ivey the valedictory, both speakers expressing deep gratitude for the benefits received in the four years past from Dr. Jacobs and members of the university faculty.

Members of the graduating class were as follows:

A. B. Students. Misses Pearl Isadore Bennett, Mary Corley, Gertrude Corigan, Ruth Fleming, Annie Mary Fuller, Margaret Elizabeth Greenwood, Ruth Kinard, Miriam Steinberg Levy, Anne DeMcElreath, Mrs. Basil W. ADHERENCE TO BIBLE DEMANDED BY HOLMES

Expulsion of members whose actions are contrary to Bible teachings, if the church is to exercise a proper influence over the youth of the land, was recommended by Rev. B. R. Holmes, president of Holmes Institute, in a special sermon delivered in Allen Temple A. M. E. church Sunday morning.

Bishop W. A. Fountain, head of the A. M. E. church in Georgia, and the Rev. E. H. Coit, secretary of the missionary department of the A. M. E. church of New York city, spoke on the drive for $100,000 which Morris Brown University is conducting.

Closing exercises of the institute will be held Tuesday night in the chapel.

GEORGIAN FORCED TO BUY OHIO TAGS

Licenses Purchased "Under Protest" for 11 Trucks in Circus.

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio, May 24.—(AP)—Existence of an automobile license tag "war" between the states of Georgia and Ohio was revealed here tonight by J. S. Hilbert, deputy automobile license commissioner in this district, who said a Georgia circus had been required to buy Ohio licenses on trucks which carried Georgia plates.

Hilbert said the Downie Brothers circus, which played here May 15, had paid "under protest" $323 for Ohio licenses for eleven trucks and trailers in its caravan of about three dozen trucks. The "unwritten law of reciprocity" between states was observed on all trucks not bearing Georgia licenses, he added.

The matching of Georgia tags with Ohio plates was required, Hilbert said, "in retaliation for the failure of Georgia to extend the usual reciprocity to Ohio licensed cars and trucks."

Owners of the circus were notified by two inspectors from the Ohio department of motor vehicle registration that they would have to get Ohio licenses for trucks bearing Georgia tags, or face arrest, Hilbert said. When they agreed to pay the $323 tag bill it was with the understanding that it would be refunded "when Georgia takes similar action in Ohio cases."

Hilbert said he did not know whether any other such cases had arisen in Ohio.

Philadelpia Feels Coldest May 24th

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—(AP)—Philadelphia today experienced the coldest May 24 in 54 years, weather records showed. The thermometer hit 45 degrees at 6 a. m., the same figure recorded on this date in 1877. The average for the day was 55.

NEW POLICE RADIO IS NEARLY READY

Few Days' Delay Encountered in Installation of Station Equipment.

Inauguration of the radio system of the Atlanta police department, scheduled for today, has been delayed for several days because of inability of engineers to complete installation of the equipment at police headquarters, it was announced Sunday.

Officials said that nearly all the receiving sets to be placed in squad cars have been installed and will be ready for service when the broadcasting station at headquarters is completed. They refused to say definitely when the task would be finished but gave assurance that the system would be in operation before the end of this week.

The street numbering system placed into operation in Atlanta several years ago through the efforts of postal authorities, will prove invaluable to police in connection with their new radio equipment, in the opinion of Postmaster E. K. Large.

Postmaster Large said Sunday that the "plumb system" of numbering as used by the postal authorities now will remove all obstacles from the path of "cruising" police in reaching the scene of a crime.

"When the radio announces that a crime has been committed—let us say in front of 840 Blue Ridge avenue," he explained, "and the officers are driving along Ponce de Leon avenue—all they have to do is to find No. 840 on Ponce de Leon and drop down on a line to find the corresponding number on Blue Ridge. It will speed things up."

"Before the present system went into effect," said Mr. Large, "there were 66 streets duplicated in name. There were 13 Peachtree and three Clifton avenues that I remember, and there were more than 4,000 irregularities in street numbers."

Maniac Frees Girl After Threat Of Murder for 'Sins of Her Sex'

CHICAGO, May 24.—(UP)—A maniac with an imagined grievance against all womankind, kidnapped 19-year-old Catherine Brennan last night, held her captive in his automobile for hours, threatened to kill her for "the sins of her sex" and finally released her unharmed today.

Miss Brennan collapsed when he shoved her out of his car near her home, crawled to her door and fainted in her mother's arms. Police searched in vain for the madman.

He seized her late last night when she alighted from a bus, struck her on the head with his gun and pushed her into his small coupe. When Miss Brennan regained consciousness she found her maniacal escort driving her along a country dirt road.

"He talked incoherently about the things his wife had done to him and about the evil ways of all women," said Miss Brennan, shaken visibly by her experience. "He showed me his gun and said he was going to kill me in retribution for the sins of women."

"I argued with him and told him how silly he was. Then he began to relent. He told me about his son and his daughter. Finally he began to cry, handed me his gun and begged me to kill him."

"While I was thinking about it he suddenly grabbed the gun away from me. "He drove me around for hours more and then brought me almost home. He told me to shut my eyes and then he pushed me out of his car. I guess I must have fainted because when I woke up the car was gone."

After Miss Brennan had been treated by a physician, police took her on a tour of northwestern Chicago in search of an automobile resembling that of her abductor. Authorities said they believed he might attempt to kidnap a second girl in order to carry out his threats of retribution against women.

MISS LOULA ASKIN PASSES AT MACON

Miss Loula Askin, of Culloden, Ga., granddaughter of the late Rev. W. M. Griffin, of Decatur, died Sunday at a private hospital in Macon. She made many friends here while visiting her aunt, Mrs. H. B. Sasser, of Decatur. She is survived by her father, a brother, O. O. Askin Jr., and two uncles, the Rev. E. S. Winn, of Fitzgerald, and W. A. Winn, of Decatur, and a cousin, Mrs. W. W. Griffin, of Atlanta. Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon in Culloden.

MANAGER OF STORE IS ROBBED OF $88

H. H. Chambers, of 87 Clifton street, manager of a Rogers store at 147 Simpson street, was robbed of $88 when he left a trolley car at the Stanwood stop of the South Decatur car line on his way home, early Sunday morning, he told police. Two white men, one of whom was armed, waylaid him shortly after he left the car, taking $28 of his own money and $60 of the store receipts, he said.

PRISON PHYSICIAN INJURED IN CRASH

MACON, Ga., May 24.—(AP)—Two men identified as Dr. E. B. Neal, 25, a surgeon for the federal penitentiary in Atlanta since January, and A. B. Tucker, 25, of Douglas, Ga., were injured at about 10:30 o'clock tonight when they were thrown from their car as it overturned on a curve about half a mile south of Echeverre.

Both were cut by flying glass and Dr. Neal was seriously injured to the leg. The injuries were not considered serious.

They were riding from Douglas to Atlanta, where Mr. Tucker was to accept a position Monday. Dr. Neal was driving. On a curve about 12 miles south of Macon the car left the road, overturning, and throwing both passengers out, Mr. Tucker said later.

Attendants at a near-by filling station called an ambulance and the injured men were taken to a Macon hospital. Dr. Neal was found to have received severe lacerations of the head and arms and severe bruises. Mr. Tucker's worst injury appeared to be a laceration on the head. Both were admitted to the hospital.

In the event of impeachment, the governor's trial by the senate, with the chief justice of Tennessee presiding, could not be held until after sine die adjournment of the legislature, July 2. Observers predicted that such a trial would last two months.

GOVERNOR HORTON UNDER FIRE TODAY

64-Year-Old Tennessee Executive Confident of His Vindication.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 24.—(AP) Battle lines were drawn tonight in preparation for the reconvening tomorrow of the Tennessee legislature in which strenuous efforts will be made to impeach Governor Henry H. Horton.

The center of controversy since the failure of administration-favored banks last fall that tied up nearly $7,000,000 of state funds, the 64-year-old executive has denied any wrongdoing and expressed confidence of his vindication.

Congressman E. H. Crump, political leader of Memphis, will be on hand to lead the anti-administrationists in the fight and his spokesmen have predicted that impeachment articles will be voted by the house not later than Friday.

Horton and Crump have exchanged fiery public statements, the governor accusing the Memphis politician of being a "usurper" and wanting to "boss the state" and Crump replying that his interests are only those of a "citizen and taxpayer." The governor, he charged, has "no rival as Tennessee's worst public enemy."

The general assembly reconvenes after a two-month recess taken in the interest of the legislative investigation of state affairs and the investigators' finding will be presented in two reports, one signed by seven of the investigators and the two legislative speakers who were ex officio members of the committee and the other signed by five dissenting committee members.

In the event of impeachment, the governor's trial by the senate, with the chief justice of Tennessee presiding, could not be held until after sine die adjournment of the legislature, July 2. Observers predicted that such a trial would last two months.

KEEP KISSABLE

... WITH OLD GOLDS

OLD GOLDS were created to give you THROAT-EASE... as well as a more delightful tasting cigarette. But the makers also considered your breath, your lips, your teeth, as well as your THROAT.

They created a pure-tobacco cigarette... free of coriander and other greasy artificial flavorings* that burn into clinging, staining, breath-tainting vapors.

To avoid unpleasant aftermaths, smoke pure-tobacco OLD GOLDS. Their clean, sun-ripened, natural-flavored tobaccos will be like honey to your THROAT. And they leave no objectionable odors either on your breath or clothing, or in the room.

HERE'S THE PROOF*

Open up a pack of OLD GOLDS and smell the tobacco. Do the same with any other cigarette. Judge for yourself which has the natural, pleasant, all-tobacco aroma. It's a favor to your family and friends, as well as to yourself, to smoke NATURAL-FLAVORED, pure-tobacco OLD GOLDS.

ALWAYS FRESH... SEALED IN CELLOPHANE

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR AND BRIDE-ELECT TO BE HONORED

Luncheons, Tea, Play Take Stellar Place on Calendar

Luncheon for a distinguished visitor, a tea complementing a charming bride-elect, and the presentation of Molnar's "The Play's the Thing," by the Studio Club at the Atlanta Woman's Club, take stellar place on today's social calendar. Mrs. Thomas Thorne Flagg's tea is planned as an honor to Miss Catherine Ginn, whose marriage to Joseph B. Brennan will be an event of social importance, taking place at Sacred Heart church Saturday, May 30. Mrs. Flagg entertains at her home on Avery drive in Ansley Park, and Mrs. E. H. Ginn, mother of the bride, will assist Mrs. Flagg in entertaining, as will Mrs. Roscoe Hearn and Mrs. Julian Chambers, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Carlton Smith and Miss Catherine Flagg, charming sub-deb daughter of the bride, and a trio of her intimate friends, Misses Harriet Wynne, Jaquelin Moore and Elizabeth Thompson.

For Mrs. Ginn.

Mrs. Charles Loridan, chairman of distinguished guests, and Mrs. Ann Bates Walsh, co-chairman, will be in charge of the luncheon given Monday, May 25, by the Atlanta Woman's Club, honoring Mrs. Elizabeth Ginn, of New Orleans, distinguished columnist who writes under the nom de plume of Dorothy Dix. Mrs. Earl Scott, chairman of parties, will be in charge of general arrangements, and in the receiving line will be the new officers of the club: Mesdames V. P. Dunn, Victor Kriegerhaber, Ann Bates Walsh, Odie Poundstone, A. C. Whitehead, C. E. Faust, D. R. Wilder, James A. Greene, W. A. Robertson and J. T. Williams. Among the honor guests will be Governor-elect Richard B. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. James Nevin, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell, Mr. and Mrs. John Cohen, Mesdames Robert Hunt, Rita Stafford, Edward Van Winkle, Mildred Seydel, Molnar's Play.

This evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Woman's Club auditorium the sustaining members of the Little Theater of the Studio Club and others interested in the drama will witness a performance of Ferenc Molnar's "The Play's the Thing." Guy Woolford will play the lead, and he is well known in Atlanta for his work with the Emory Players, the Little Theater, and other local organizations. Mrs. Dorothy Fluker Stokes, cast for the feminine role, was graduated from North Avenue Presbyterian school and the Cecelia Dramatic Club. The supporting cast is made up of experienced actors, including Richard Morens, who is chairman of the Little Theater group; Frank McMillan, who was president of the Thalian Dramatic Club at the University of Georgia; Matt Jorgensen, formerly on the production staff of the Greek theater at Berkeley, Cal., and later an active member of the dramatic club at Harvard; George Ramey, recently a prominent figure in the Tech Marionettes; Harold Brown, the juvenile actor, though an experienced actor, is making his first public appearance with the Studio Club in "The Play's the Thing." The play is under the skilled direction of Janet Mills Shepherd. This play marks the third production directed by Mrs. Shepherd for the Studio Club this season and promises to be one of her best efforts.

For Miss Ginn.

Miss Mary Goddard was hostess yesterday at her home on Oakdale road in Druid Hills, honoring Miss Catherine Ginn and Joseph Brennan. Mrs. Fred Hoyt entertained Tuesday at luncheon at Brookhaven, the Capital City Country Club, honoring Miss Ginn. Miss Frances Howard entertains at ten Tuesday at her home on Westminister drive as a complement to this popular bride-elect, and Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holland Jr. will honor Miss Ginn and Mr. Brennan at a buffet supper.

Dr. Gaertner's Lecture

Members and friends of the German American Club will be interested in the announcement of the third regular German lecture at the Deutsches Haus, 80 Fourteenth street, N. E., Wednesday evening, May 27, at 8 o'clock. Dr. Gaertner, of Oglethorpe University, will talk on the "Modern Youth Movement in Germany."

The new German government has been interested in making a number of important changes in the educational system of Germany particularly in the so-called "Gymnasien." The tendency is toward a more democratic system, which will enable the children of the poor to continue their education beyond the common schools.

The modern youth movement in Germany is one of the more interesting phases of this reorganization and there are many who will want to hear Dr. Gaertner on this question. Everybody is invited and the lecture is free.

Alumni Dance.

Commercial High School Alumni Association holds its annual senior dance at the Atlanta Biltmore Tuesday evening, May 26, from 9 to 12:30 o'clock. As in the past, proceeds from the affair are to go to the Annie T. Wise Educational Fund, which is used to assist needy students to complete their education who would otherwise have to leave school.

Officers of the association are as follows: Sidney L. Saul, president; Lewis McGuffey, vice president; Elizabeth Barfield, treasurer; and Minnie Topham, secretary. Tickets may be purchased at school or by phoning Sidney L. Saul at Walnut 5226, and the tickets will be delivered.

Pre-School Group.

Lovett School Pupils Give Plays

The children of the Lovett school celebrated the closing week with special assembly programs and a series of plays. The third grade presented a short program, "Glimpses of Japan," which was organized from their study of that country and their activities in connection with Japan.

The fifth grade presented an outdoor Greek play. The costumes and stage settings were made by the children. A dramatization of several scenes of "Sokar the Crocodile" was the event of the day. For this the children made beautiful properties and scenery to suit the Egyptian story. On Wednesday "The Covered Wagon," a story of the Oregon trail, written by Katherine Calhoun, Mary Ann Hilsman, Kitty Wolf and Nancy Wolf, was presented by the children of the higher grades. On Friday "Les Trois Souhaits" and "Le Petit Chaperon Rouge" were cleverly played by the girls of the advanced French classes.

Dance, Banquet and Supper Feature Georgia University Commencement

ATHENS, May 24.—A two-day senior class social program during University of Georgia commencement includes two dances, a banquet, and a buffet supper on Monday and Tuesday, June 15 and 16, preceding graduation exercises on Wednesday, June 17, is being planned. The traditional all-night dance will be held this year on Monday night and will be in the form of a costume ball.

Decision for the class dances was made following announcement of the Pan-Hellenic council that no regular council dances will be held at commencement.

Commencement program committee is headed by Mark Hollis, Savannah. Other members of the committee are: Charles Bryant, Jasper, secretary-treasurer of the class; Thomas J. Cristenden, Shellman; G. W. Caskey, Athens; W. P. Sprayberry, Smyrna; and John T. Carlton, Decatur.

Officers were elected at the final banquet of Phi Delta Phi, honorary legal fraternity, held Friday, honoring senior members. Faculty members of the school present were: Dean H. N. Edmunds; Alton H. Hovey, associate professor; Thomas F. Green, Jr., associate professor; Robert L. McWhorter, professor; and H. W. Caldwell, professor.

Officers are: Carol Latimer, Atlanta, president; William Binnas, Athens, vice-president; Robert Bruce, Sea Island Beach, treasurer; J. Graham, McRae, secretary; Hamilton Napier, Atlanta, sergeant-at-arms; and Dudley Cook, Atlanta, historian.

Pioneer Inner Circle held its annual banquet and initiation Tuesday evening, with 25 members and guests present.

Basis for membership in this organization is a high scholastic average, and at least two extra-curricular activities. Members are elected during their sophomore or junior years.

This year's initiates are: Misses Katherine Bryan, Atlanta; Leslie Bailey, Atlanta; Pauline Hadaway, Athens; Pauline Stephens, Brunswick; Ruth Brundage, Augusta; Naomi F. Pomeroy, Augusta; Mary Masur, Augusta; Katherine Rogers, Demorest; Mildred Holley, Augusta; Sophia Boyd, Tignall; and Marie Hollenshead, Washington.

Guests were Mrs. Charles M. Snell, Miss Anne Brumby, Mrs. Cora Garwood, Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, and Miss Louise Hammond.

Alpha Kappa Psi, national honorary commerce club, gave its annual sport ball Friday at the Athens Country Club, with some several hundred guests in attendance.

Members of the chapter, students in the university, faculty members, and others. Chaplains were: Professor and Mrs. M. H. Bryan, Professor and Mrs. J. W. Jenkins, and Professor and Mrs. Glenn W. Sutton.

Alpha Kappa Psi entertained at a banquet Wednesday in honor of its founders and the seniors of the local chapter.

Professors Jenkins, Sutton and Bryan, of the school of commerce made talks, and each senior was asked to make a speech. Alumni present were: E. A. Lowe, director of personnel, and James Hayes of the Rogers Baking Company.

Senior members of Alpha Kappa Psi include: George Miller, Birmingham, Ala.; Ben Dickenson, Monroe; Ralph Owen, Ellijay; Charles Price, Atlanta; Leighton Mitchell, Atlanta; Bill Ellington, Ellijay; Linder Alford, Hartwell; Allen Walters, Eastanolie; and H. E. Warrell, Pensacola.

Five men students of the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism and Edward C. Crouse, instructor in journalism, were initiated Thursday into Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary journalistic fraternity.

New members are: Yuleo Lyle, Athens; Donald McKee, Monticello, N. J.; James Cobb, Savannah; David Meyers, Columbus; and Adolph Rosenberg, Albany. Guy C. Hamilton, graduate of the school of journalism, and southern regional inspector for the fraternity, and Prof. M. H. Bryan, of the school of commerce were two alumni who took part in the initiation.

Mr. Hamilton is president of the United Press. Immediately after the initiation a banquet was held. The International Relations Club was entertained by Miss Jeanette Rankin Friday evening, who entertained the club with the view to having a general discussion on current international problems.

Liberty Hill P.T. A. met last Monday afternoon. At this time new officers were elected as follows: Mrs. J. P. McLarty, president; Mrs. E. Gorman, vice president; Mrs. Eberhard, treasurer; Miss Nello Gorman, secretary. Mrs. T. G. Pritchett gave a report of the P.T. A. convention held in Macon, and reported that Liberty Hill P.T. A. was rated as a superior organization and will be given a state seal.

Miss Emma Burnett, gave a short talk and thanked the mothers in behalf of teachers and pupils for their help and co-operation during the past year. Mrs. T. G. Pritchett and Mrs. H. O. Cunnard will conduct a reading course this summer for the children of the community. Mothers are urged to attend the mass meeting at Fulton High Friday May 22.

own scent back, but the dry sand had held no scent. It was then that Flip sat down, pointed his nose to the twinkling stars and howled mournfully. But he soon realized that this would get him nowhere, so he stopped howling and tried to get up. He could see the tall black shape of a giant cactus. He remembered that it was behind a cactus that Kit had first been seen.

When he reached this cactus he realized that this was not the one. A little way to one side was another. He slowly heaved over his head. This wasn't the one either. Once more Flip sat down and pointed his nose to the stars and howled. This time there was an answering howl far in the distance, but there was something about that howl that sent shivers running up and down his backbone. It sounded like several voices howling together. In reality there was only one voice. It was the voice of one of Old Man Coyote's relatives.

Flip didn't howl any more. He had a feeling that it would be best not to. There was something unpleasantly threatening about that faint howl. He didn't want to meet the owner of that voice. No, sir, he didn't want to meet the owner of that voice. So he turned and trotted in the opposite direction, and if he had but known it, he was in exactly the wrong direction. You see, that Coyote was just on the edge of the desert. Flip was going farther and farther out on the desert.

Every little while he set down to rest. And how he did long for a drink of water, a nice, long, cool drink! His tongue hung from his mouth. He was tired, thirsty and very much afraid. He would lie still until he was rested and then he would wander

New President of Pirate Club

The dashing Pirate in the accompanying photograph is Miss Mary Cobb Hunnicutt, who was pictured immediately after she was elected president of the Pirate Club of Atlanta at the elaborate costume ball given by that exclusive sub-deb organization Thursday evening at Forrest Hills Golf Club. She is wearing a costume of black and white, featuring a variety-colored sack. Miss Hunnicutt, the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Hunnicutt, will enter the senior class at Washington Seminary next fall. Photograph by Bill Mason, staff photographer.

on again. The dark strange shape of a giant cactus would loom up and frighten him. He whimpered. This was a strange and unfriendly land, and oh, how he longed for his master!

FRIENDLY COUNSEL BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. You name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

What can I do to make myself more entertaining to a well-to-do husband who furnishes me and my two daughters with every material comfort but who never sits down to talk to us? When he comes home for his meals he has the fidgets until he leaves. I want to be more acceptable and I don't know how to accomplish it. MRS. J.

ANSWER:

Of course I don't know what you do to bore your husband or whether that is the reason for his unnatural attitude. But if the forward speed of the automobile won't take you in the direction you want to go you reverse the gear. If you are given to the discussion of household and personal affairs, change the topic and talk about outside subjects. If you are given to around and talk about what you have been doing, if you are given to monopoly of the conversation, try being quiet and allowing your husband to talk and, lastly, if you are one of the silent ones, whose every silence is disconcerting, try to give him some chat.

Most of us find ourselves the most interesting subject of all. That very interest completely cuts us off from contact with things of real import. In growing nails, eyes, minds, are all ugly to look at and uncomfortable to live with.

Move about among the neighbors and friends and gather momentum as you go. If you feel dull, instead of giving away to it and driving within your shell get out and mix with those who are sharp. If you feel yourself a bore, watch how the entertaining people converse. If you feel dissatisfied, buy yourself some clothes. If the house is rusty and dark and unattractive, get some summer chintz and do a little repainting and fix up some good reading lamps that shed convenient light on comfortable chairs. Plant blooming flowers and fill the house with bowls of beauty and fragrance.

In other words, spruce up yourself and your house. If the house is attractive and comfortable and the wife is half-way attractive and the atmosphere is pleasant, the husband will stay contentedly at home, provided he is what he ought to be. If he is not, then nothing you do or say, or don't do or don't say, will make any difference.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Janet's boy friend, whom she frankly loves, hasn't been to see her for two months, although he comes to her town every week-end. She says she "could not bear to be away from him forever" and she wants advice as to how she can "win him back." Then she acknowledges that he isn't the kind of a boy who makes "open love" but she says she can tell when that kind of a boy is in love with her. He has never shown any jealousy, nor has he ever got angry when Janet refused to break a date in order to make one with him. In fact, he just suits her. He suits her so well that she is blinded to three facts any one of which is proof conclusive that he doesn't give the snap of his finger for her. He suits her so well that she stops her ears and refuses to hear some others that are being shrieked at her, for she has sunk into a sort of blissful sleep from which no warning voice can call her.

Young lady, it is hard to tell what a man is thinking about when he talks and when he is silent you haven't a chance to decipher his thoughts. If you can tell when the silent ones love you, you are capable of devotion greater than ordinary mortals possess. When a boy friend isn't the kind to speak or only of his love he isn't the kind to be conscious of it. When a boy accepts decisions from a girl not in his favor, without a protest, without a murmur, you can put it down that he doesn't give a whoop. When a boy comes to a town where a girl acquaintance lives and doesn't call her for a date in two months, he is not aware that she is living.

All of these incontrovertible proofs that the young man doesn't love Janet have gone over her head and she hasn't looked up to see where they came from or where they are going. She asks in rather bewildered fashion what she can "do to win him back." She hasn't that privilege because she never won him in the first instance. Nor will she. She cannot salvage anything but her pride and if she is not convinced by these arguments that she has made a big mistake she cannot even salvage her pride.

When boys love girls they say so. When boys love girls they raise the roof to see them. When boys don't love girls they say nothing. When boys don't love girls they behave exactly as Janet's boy friend is behaving.

Janet must face the bitter truth that she will have to "bear to be away from him forever."

have returned from a business trip to Waycross.

Mrs. H. J. Bolton will entertain the members of the Idle Hour Club with a backward party, at the June meeting. Mrs. F. M. White was hostess to the club at the May meeting. The meeting was featured with the election of officers. Contest prizes were won by Mrs. W. E. Keesee and Mrs. J. M. Morris. Those present were Mesdames E. V. Moore, W. D. McMillen, L. W. Medcalf, L. L. Hargrove, F. E. Rimer, A. D. Helms, H. J. Bolton, W. T. Campbell, Marcella McMillen, J. M. Morris, W. E. Keesee and Mrs. H. J. Bolton. Mrs. Watkins assisted the hostess in entertaining.

Workers' Council. Sunday school workers' council of Central Presbyterian church meets at 5:30 o'clock. Supper will be served by the senior department.

For Miss Davis.

Miss Milton Blanton was hostess at a bridge party Saturday afternoon, comprising Miss Virginia Davis, who is being entertained at a series of parties prior to her wedding on Monday, June 22, to Herman Rush, of Alexandria, La. Invited to meet her were:

Mesdames M. M. Simpson, James Hill, Walter Fish, Homer Mills, Katherine McNulty, Ruby Green, Hinton Blackshear, Frank Ligon, Sidney G. Gilbreath, Joe Mack, Misses Alma Lou Dalton, Gladys Wade, Julia Story, Evelyn Sheffield, Frances Corrigan, Norma Tucker, Louise Hagin, Myrtle Morton and Evelyn Gilbreath.

Miss Allen's Class. Mrs. Lily Allen's music class celebrated Music Week with 40 pupils and friends assembling in Mrs. Allen's studio, and the entertainment was furnished by the pupils. Votes for the most interesting number gave the first prize to L. D. Fallize, and the second prize to Miss Naomi Plunkett. From the invited guests a group of readings by little Miss Anne Conway, and a cornet solo by Master C. L. (Jimmy) Greene were appreciated. Special mention is made of a vocal duet by Miss Frances Moore and L. D. Fallize. Piano numbers were given by Misses Rosalyn Blumstein, Elaine Conway, Louise Gibbs, Elise Hunter, Jane Laurent, Sarah Lloyd, F. E. Rimer and Naomi Plunkett, and Bill Watson.

East Lake P.T. A.

East Lake P.T. A. celebrated dad-dies' night Tuesday, with Mrs. Howard Graves, president, presiding. Annual reports were read from each committee. Under Mrs. Graves' leadership, the association has done splendid work. She was re-elected president. Other officers who will serve with Mrs. Graves are: First vice president, Mrs. G. F. Harrington; second vice president, Miss Willie Clements; secretary, Mrs. E. L. Brittain; treasurer, Mrs. George Burkes. O. H. Burgess, principal of J. C. Murphy Junior High school, presented a splendid program by former pupils of East Lake school. At the close of the program a social hour was enjoyed. The school rooms were open for inspection.

Silhouette Artist.

St. Mary's Guild of St. Philip's Cathedral, presents Dr. Vernon, celebrated silhouette artist, today on the mezzanine of Thomas Florist Shop, 1034 Peachtree street. Mr. Vernon will remain in Atlanta for a week and will be on the mezzanine daily from 10 until 5:30 o'clock. The proceeds derived from this artistic feature will go toward the philanthropic purposes of the guild, of which Mrs. St. Elmo Massengale is president.

Maple Grove.

Maple Grove No. 86, Supreme Forester Woodmen Circle, met Thursday with Guardian Ruth Bowers presiding. Miss Nannie Coleman, of American Grove No. 217, was a visitor. Sovereign Maude Lashley, banker of the grove, tendered her resignation, which was accepted with regret. Sovereign Louise Mason was elected to the office. A general meeting of Loyalty Clubs at the home of Mrs. Amanda Vaughn, 837 Norcross street, is planned for Wednesday, May 27. Thursday, May 28, Maple Grove No. 86 will hold an open meeting in the hall at 160 Central avenue, to which the public is invited. An interesting program has been planned. Dora Alexander Talley Guards will exemplify the floor work under the direction of Acting Captain Jewel Gaudin.

David Hills Methodist church, will be guest of honor and will speak on "Personal Evangelism." Dr. Russell is a great believer and worker in this particular field of Christian work, and his message promises to be helpful and inspiring. Executive committee meets at 5:30 o'clock. Supper will be served by the senior department.

CIVILIZATION'S DIARY

Civilization is a manner of living—and civilized people seek to live as comfortably, healthfully and pleasantly as they can.

To this end, the wheels of industry turn unceasingly, producing civilized goods for the use of civilized people. Leaders of industry lay far-reaching plans to provide better services for a civilized world. In countless laboratories, new things and better ways are constantly being developed.

Advertisements are the daily record of civilization's progress. They are civilization's open diary—brought to you in the columns of The Constitution. Diaries make good reading, and the advertisements are no exception. Read them every day . . . and keep posted on the things that make civilized living ever more livable.

7171. Plaid gingham is here combined with linen. One could use plain and printed voile or combine organza with printed linen or lawn. The design is also good in one material. The plait inserts in blouse and skirt create graceful fullness. Shoulder sections are lengthened to form short sleeve portions over the top of the arm. A belt holds the fullness of the blouse at normal waistline.

Designed in five sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. A 38-inch size will require 2-1/4 yards of 35-inch material if made without contrast. To make as illustrated in the large view will require 4-1/8 yards of plain material and 1-7/8 yards of plaid 35 inches wide. The width of the skirt at the lower edge with plaits extended is three yards. The blouse alone will require 2-1/4 yards of one material. The skirt alone will require 3-1/8 yards of one material. For plait inserts and shoulder sections and belt of contrasting 2-7/8 yard is required. To finish with bias binding as shown in the large view will require 1-5/8 yards 1-1/2 inches wide. One yard of bolting is required for the inside waistband. Seven-eighths yard of ribbon for the bow at the neck.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

GRAND HOTEL

By VICKI BAUM

INSTALLMENT XII.

Kringelein, who had never seen such a work of art as this lady, showed his amazement and delight in his face. He pulled Otterschlag by the sleeve and whispered in an undertone: "Who can that be?"

"Don't you know, my dear fellow? It's Grusinskaya," Otterschlag said impatiently, and stalked over to the elevator. Kringelein stood rooted to the spot. Grusinskaya! Good heavens! Grusinskaya, he thought. For Grusinskaya's fame was such that it had even reached Frederdorf. So she really exists? I've stood beside her, brushed against her, I must write to Kampann about this.

He set off with speed in order to see her once more and to take a good look at her. At this very moment a little comedy of good manners was proceeding in front of the elevator. An exceptionally well set up, elegant and handsome fellow stepped ostentatiously back two paces from the elevator, and made way for Grusinskaya with an easy and at the same time chivalrous gesture as though it were not merely a question of giving her precedence, but of laying the foundation of an empire at the feet of a queen. Otterschlag, who stood by himself against the wall on the other side of the corridor, muttered, "Sir Walter Raleigh!" Kringelein, on the other hand, now in full career, shot past him and pressed into the elevator with the other ladies.

Thus it was that his recently acquired friend remained alone, since only four could go up at once. "Ah! So you too are in Berlin, Baron?" Witte, the old conductor, asked, and Baron Gaigen answered: "Yes, I happen to be here, too." Kringelein listened with awe to this talk between fine people. The one armed man turned the handle, the elevator stopped at the first floor, and they all marched off along the raspberry-red carpet to their rooms. Grusinskaya leading, then Witte, then the Baron, then Otto Kringelein. The doors of Nos. 68 and 69 and 70 were opened. It was 2 o'clock and an old grandfather clock at the turning of the passage struck off officially.

Grusinskaya paused a moment between the double doors of her room. "Well, good-night, my dear," she said to Witte. She spoke German to him when she was in the humor. "Thank you again for this evening. It really went well, don't you think? Eight curtains. Tell me, by the way, who was that young man? Haven't we seen him before somewhere? At Nice, was it?"

"Yes, at Nice, Lisa. He introduced himself to me one day. We played bridge together once or twice. He appears to have great admiration for Elisabeth." "Ah," Grusinskaya replied shortly. She put out her hand under her cloak and absent-mindedly stroked Witte's sleeve. "We are tired out, good-night, my dear. He's the handsomest man I've ever seen in my life—this Baron," she added in Russian. Her voice as she said it sounded as cold as if she spoke in a salesroom.

Kringelein, lingering at his door and thirsting for life, listened eagerly to the foreign speech. He had a confused notion that the world was vast and more exciting and quite other than he had ever imagined it in Frederdorf.

Then the doors closed throughout the hotel. Everyone locked himself in behind double doors and was left alone with himself and his secrets. There is not the faintest sign of fashionable life on the ground floor of a big hotel between 8 and 10 in the morning. The guests to be seen during the morning are all solid and industrious businessmen. They sit in the lounge and conduct their business in all languages, selling stocks and bonds, cotton, lubricating oil, patents, films and real estate—and also plans, ideas, energy and even life itself. Newspapers are strewn on every table, every telephone booth is not only occupied but beleaguered. The hall porter, Seuf, has not the slightest hope of getting news from the hospital before 1 o'clock. On the fifth floor in the corridor just behind the laundry the nerge boys are subjected to a kind of parade before going on duty. And the entrance hall of the Grand Hotel is not very different from a bazaar.

Take, for example, Herr General-director Preysing, of the Saxonia Cotton Company. Let us take this excellent and thoroughly average businessman as a pattern, and then we shall see what men of his class are about between 8 and 10 in the Grand Hotel.

General Director Preysing, a large, heavy man, rather too stout, arrived at the hotel at the impossible hour of 6:20 a. m. and the reason was that express trains do not stop at the unfortunate Frederdorf. In spite of his utmost endeavors he had not so far succeeded in getting a fast train service for the town, though the factory had been granted a siding for loading its freight. This, however, only by the way. Preysing then, arrived in a somewhat exhausted and shattered state, and he grumbled to himself when he found that the room engaged for him was one of the most expensive. First floor with sitting room and bath, No. 71, price 75 marks. Preysing was a careful man. For example, the real reason he did not come to Berlin in his car was that he wished to save the expense of putting up his chauffeur. However, as he had brought a five room with a bath to pay for, the first thing he did was to enjoy a long and luxurious immersion in hot water. (In this he closely resembled the other gentlemen from Frederdorf, Herr Kringelein.) After that he lay in bed for a while, but he could not shake off the fatigue and discomfort of a cold night journey. So he got up again and dressed. Then he unpacked his bag with meticulous care and hung his coats over the coatrangers that he had brought with him. Each shoe, each set of underclothing, everything, indeed, was enclosed in a clean linen bag, and on each bag the initials K. P. were neatly marked in red cross-stitch.

While he tied his tie, Preysing looked absent-mindedly out on to the street. He had a heavy day before him. He must collect himself and have everything well thought out. He rang for the valet and gave him his shoes to clean. He had even brought his own polish with him, a brown one and a white. Preysing took out his note case with the deliberate and fastidious movements that were characteristic of him and counted his money. In the inner pocket was a thick wedge of 1,000-mark notes. Preysing wet his thumb and forefinger as he counted the notes—the sign of a small man who has made his own way. He put the notes on a table in the inner breast pocket of his gray worsted suit and fastened up the pocket with a safety pin. For a while he strolled to and fro in red-leather bedroom slippers, conducting mute dialogues with the people from the "Cheerful Manufacturing Company." Then the valet brought his shoes, and at ten minutes to eight Preysing was able to leave his room and arrive secret at the hotel here's, and of his cares he looked plump and prosperous enough and in excellent humor, as, freshly shaved, he sat down to breakfast. And there Herr Rothenburger found him when he came by appointment at eight-thirty. Herr Rothenburger was entirely bald. He had not even eyebrows or eyelashes, and this gave him an air of perpetual astonishment that agreed very ill with his cynical pursuits. He was an intermediary between stockholders and bankers; now and then he took up agencies besides; and he also sat as director on the board of some small enterprise or other. He knew everything, repeated everything, and had a finger in everything. It was he who was the first to retail the latest stockbrokers' joke and to start those ugly rumors that bring down the price of shares. Take him all in all, Herr Rothenburger was a comical, dangerous, and useful man.

"Morning, Rothenburger," said Preysing, "and to see you. What'll you have? Tea, cognac, ham and eggs?"

"(Continued Tomorrow.)"

Shields, Wood Win as U. S. Enters American Davis Cup Finals; Crackers and Barons Ready To Inaugurate Night Baseball Here

SHIELDS, WOOD BEAT CANADIANS IN FINAL GAMES

Wright, Rainville Downed Easily; U. S. Meets Argentine Next.

MONTREAL, Quebec, May 24.—(AP)—The United States Davis cup tennis team captured the North American zone title today, eliminating Canada in the final round, four matches to one.

Sidney B. Wood Jr., of New York, whose unexpected defeat by Marcel Rainville had given Canada its one victory on Thursday, clinched the series in the opening singles match today when he upset Dr. Jack Wright, Montreal veteran, in straight sets, 8-6, 6-3, 6-4. With nothing at stake, Frank Shields, New York youngster, then romped through Rainville in the final match of the series, 6-1, 6-4, 6-1.

The United States team will clash with Argentina, South American zone champions, at Washington Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. The survivor of this series will go to Europe to meet the European zone titleholder and, in the event of victory, will play France in the challenge round.

Wood and Wright had played one set of their match and were in the midst of the second when rain forced a postponement yesterday. They resumed play today at that point with Wood leading by one set and with the score two-all in the second set. The young New Yorker promptly won two service games and broke through Wright once to lead 5-2. The Canadian veteran rallied long enough to win on his own service, but Wood ran through the ninth game in short order to win the set, 6-3.

After Wright had captured the first game of the third set on his own service, Wood ran through four games in a row. Wright won the next two to make the count, 4-3, but games followed service until Wood ran out the set and match at 6-4.

Except for a few moments in the second set, there was not much competition in the battle between Shields and Rainville. The New Yorker was at top form, playing a smashing game that had the little French-Canadian baffled.

Rain Postpones Argentine Selections.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP)—Naming of the Argentine players for the final Davis cup battle of the American zone, expected here today, was postponed, due to the raining out of the concluding matches yesterday between the United States and Canada.

Unless unforeseen circumstances arise, however, it was held almost certain that Ronaldo Boyd, No. 1 Argentine ranking player, and Guillermo Robson will play at least the first two singles matches, with this pair also a possibility for the doubles.

Boyd, who played yesterday with his teammates for the first time since March, due to illness, is a 210-pounder with a sparkling game, hitting hard on either the back or forehand.

The Argentinians practiced this morning and also briefly this afternoon, although a cool cross wind made play difficult on the outdoor courts. They have their last day of heavy work before the start of the final matches Thursday.

Lott and Van Ryn Continue Victories.

AUTUMN, May 24.—(AP)—America's crack doubles combination, George Lott and John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, marched into the final round of the championship tennis championships today.

After a shaky start, the American pair steadily to trounce Fred Perry and G. P. Hughes, of England, in the semi-final round, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2, 7-5. They will face N. G. Farguharson and V. Kirby, of South Africa, in the final round tomorrow. Farguharson and Kirby disposed of H. W. (Bunny) Austin and Charles H. Kingsley, of England, 10-8, 6-2, 7-5.

Van Ryn not only played his part in the American victory but also cleared his second obstacle in singles, eliminating Martin Leeson, 6-3, 6-2, 7-5.

The only championship final of the day saw Betty Nuthall and her South African partner, P. D. B. Spence, capture the mixed doubles title with a 6-3, 5-7, 6-3 triumph over Mrs. Shepherd Barron and H. W. (Bunny) Austin.

In singles, Jean Borotra, French hope in the absence of Henri Cochet, defeated I. G. Collins, of England, 6-4, 7-5, 8-6; George de Stefani, of Italy, eliminated Charles F. Aeschlimann, of Switzerland, 6-4, 6-1, 6-3; Rene de France, 6-2, 6-3, 7-0, 6-4; Baron von Kehring, of Hungary, defeated John S. O'Neil, of England, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1, 6-6, and Herman Artens, of Austria, defeated Domingue Torralva, 6-8, 6-1, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4.

In addition to the doubles finals tomorrow, three Americans will play in the women's singles. Elizabeth Ryan, the Californian who is living in England, meets Mme. Marcel Boesche; Dorothy Andrus, of Stamford, Conn., plays Jeanne Gallay, and Virginia Hillyard, of Philadelphia, encounters Mme. de Montebello.

MACKMEN TAKE FIFTEENTH TILT TO BOOST LEAD

Walberg Is Victor in 7-3 Feast of Home Runs.

By Leo H. Petersen, United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, May 24.—(UP)—Philadelphia increased its American league leadership, scooped and one-half game today by defeating the second-place New York Yankees, 7 to 3. It was the fifteenth consecutive victory for the Athletics.

Rube Walberg allowed 11 hits in registering his seventh victory, but his mates turned in three double plays to help him out of tough spots. The Athletics got three hits off Ruffing, Phipps and Weinger, including home runs by Fox and Bishop. Ruth and Chapman got home for New York.

Washington advanced to within a half a game of second place by winning from the Boston Red Sox, 10 to 3. Alvin Crowder, although he has to be relieved in the seventh inning, chalked up his first victory. The Red Sox threatened in the ninth when they scored four runs and had the tying counter on base, but "Sad" Sam Jones came in to halt the rally.

INDIANS SLIP.
The Cleveland Indians fell back in the losing ways and dropped a double-header to the Chicago White Sox, 4 to 3, and 3 to 2. Ted Lyons won his own game by singling with first base full in the eighth inning of the opening contest. Pat Caraway held the Indians to five hits in the second game.

St. Louis and Detroit split a double-header, the Browns taking the first contest, 10 to 3, and the Tigers the second, 3 to 1. The Browns pounded St. Louis and Herring 10 to 3 in the first game as Stewart allowed the Tigers but six. Bridges, a rookie, held St. Louis to seven scattered hits in the second game. The Cardinals lead the Giants by .013 percentage points.

BURLINGHAM BOWLS.
Silas Johnson held the Cards to six hits in the first game as the Reds scored three runs in the first inning of the season, 3 to 2. St. Louis pounded three Cincinnati pitchers for 14 hits as Jess Haines coasted to a 13 to 6 victory in the second game. Although he had to be relieved in the ninth, the veteran Clarence Mitchell won his fifth victory for the Giants, defeating the Braves in the first game, 10 to 7. Ed Brandt registered his seventh straight victory as the Braves won the second game, 2 to 0. The second game was called at the end of the sixth inning because of the Sunday baseball law in Massachusetts.

The Pittsburgh Pirates made it two in a row over Chicago, 10 to 7, and advanced to fourth place while the Cubs dropped to fifth. The Pirates bombarded five Cub hurlers for 15 hits.

Finn's single, scoring Gilbert, who had doubled, gave Brooklyn a 6 to 5, ten-inning victory over Philadelphia. The first game had tied the score in the ninth after Philadelphia apparently had put the contest on ice by scoring four runs on five hits in the seventh inning.

Turf Meeting Opens At Washington Park

CHICAGO, May 24.—(UP)—Washington Park's 30-day race meeting will open tomorrow, with the 10,000 added Washington Park handicap, at six furlongs, the feature race. Don Leona, a 3-year-old, has been installed a favorite.

The twenty-third renewal of the $50,000 added American Derby will take place June 20. Among the field for this classic are Sweep All, Mate, and Kentucky. Playmaker, the favorite, is a 3-year-old, owned by R. H. Hunter and many other leading 3-year-olds.

American Matt J. Winn, president of the American Turf Association, is hopeful that Twenty Grand, Kentucky Derby winner, will capture the Belmont stakes and come here to compete in the American Derby.

Women Start Play In Golf Meet Today

MONTCLAIR, N. J., May 24.—(AP)—A field of 115 will start play over the Montclair Golf Club course tomorrow in the women's metropolitan golf championship.

Most of the prominent women golfers of the metropolitan district have entered the tournament, in which Martha Parker, of Springfield Lake, will be defending champion. An outstanding exception is Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, four-times winner of the title, who now is en route to Europe to compete in the British women's championship. Glenna Collett, of New York, national champion, also is listed in the starting field, but may send in her entry at the last minute. Tomorrow will be devoted to an 18-hole qualifying round, the 92 and 94 low scorers to qualify for match play.

Miami Golf Tourney Won by Winfield Day

MIAMI, Fla., May 24.—(AP)—Winfield Day Jr., Chicago and Miami schoolboy golfer, won the spring tournament of the Miami Country Club today by defeating Harcourt Brice, Miami, 3 and 2, in the 36-hole final round.

Baseball tonight! TONIGHT!!

Just between us, and do not tell any of these afternoon reporters, but that announcement just doesn't sound right. Well, it doesn't sound right to leave Atlanta at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and arrive in Cincinnati for supper. But that is what progress in transportation has done for us.

CURIOSITY KILLED A WATT.
For all these weeks this department has been singing the praises of night baseball, by way of keeping step with modern developments and stepping on the toes of the rival press. And yet:

The proprietor of this medium of expression has never seen a night baseball game. For all he knows it may be awful. He is just as curious as you and you and you.

FORECASTING.
Barring unfavorable weather, a monster crowd will be in Spiller field tonight.

Then Tuesday night the crowd will fall away to normal again. This discrepancy will be hailed by the opponents of the night game as a sign it is all wrong. They would!

Unfavorable weather can limit the crowd at any day game. The crowd always falls off tremendously the day after an opening game.

But by the time the sun begins blazing down in July and August, night baseball will be firmly established here and folks will wonder why the Crackers did not put in lights long ago.

POLO TOURNAMENT STARTS.
Reckless riders raced over the hard packed sod at Fort McPherson yesterday afternoon before an enthusiastic crowd in the first two games of the Fourth Corps Area and Southern Circuit polo tournaments.

Eight teams are participating and experts say they are better teams on the whole than ever rode here in a similar event. For one thing, the mounts are better. Yearly, army polo ponies are more closely approaching in caliber those of crack civilian outfits in the east.

Atlanta has become polo conscious. The field was hemmed on both sides by a fashionable crowd yesterday. Major General Frank McCoy, commanding the Fourth Corps Area; Brigadier General George H. Estes, post commander of Fort McPherson, have fostered the development of the game in this section. And facilities for holding these tournaments have been greatly improved.

A public address system has been installed through which Lieutenant William E. Hall details the game as it proceeds. Those innocent of polo can follow the game perfectly.

FORT BENNING FAVORED.
Of the eight teams entered, that from the Infantry School at Fort Benning is favored to win. The Blue and White quartet has an aggregate handicap of 12 goals. Major C. B. Lyman, whose dashing play here last year was a feature, is No. 1 on this team.

One may gather that the team has been strengthened when it is known that one of the Baker brothers—Herbert E.—who played well with this team a year ago, could not make the grade this year.

The Infantry School won the Regular Army division of the tournament last year by defeating Fort Bragg, but yielded the Southern Circuit prize to Bragg.

This year Bragg is back, but without the services of Captain Peter Rodes, a six-handicap man. Bragg played Sunday afternoon and looked very strong, however. One of their most striking men in action is Captain Doug Crane, a giant in stature who rides as No. 4. The tournament continues all week with daily games and concludes with two games next Sunday.

M'PHERSON '4' HORSE GUARDS TAKE OPENERS

Fort Bragg, Savannah Squads Bow as Polo Tourney Starts.

By Ida Frances Wing.

Two local teams, Fort McPherson and the Governor's Horse Guards, won the opening games of the Fourth Corps Area and Southern Circuit polo tournament Sunday afternoon at the military reservation over Fort Bragg and Savannah, respectively. Fort McPherson took a 7-3 victory and the Guardsmen topped the 11th St. 10-4. Some 1,500 polo fans attended.

The tournament play will be resumed at 4 o'clock this afternoon when the Fort Benning team will meet the Sixth Cavalry from Fort Oglethorpe. In Sunday's opening game Doug Crane, broad-shouldered back for the Bragg squad, broke the ice in the opening minutes of play with a pretty shot, centering a long knock from Gus Franke.

BIDDLE STARTS.
Bill Biddle, at 2 for the locals, came across with one for Fort McPherson. Fleming, whose characteristic long, high drive was a feature of the play, tailed one in the second frame and Franke made good a foul in the fifth. Fisher, at 1 for the visitors, drove one over in the fourth period and the Fort added a trio in the final chukker with Shubert, Franke and Wing each contributing one. The Bragg squad scored the locals two goals, since Franke carries a handicap of seven goals and Fort Mac has four.

The play was cautious at first, each team feeling the other out. The field was a bit rough and there was some missing. In the third game picked up with the play strung out down the field. Eagerness to win caused a number of fouls and the referees exacted penalty shots.

CRANE SCORES.
Crane got the ball in the opening seconds of play and started off nicely, but Biddle intercepted and the play slowed until Crane again picked it up and eased over the opening tally. Fort Mac fouled, but the free shot, from the 60-yard line, was easily carried. Franke sent one up for Biddle who drove it over to score.

An epidemic of fouls slowed matters in the second period, but none of the tries were good. Fleming swept down field and scored the only goal of the period.

There was no score in the third chukker, but beautiful shots and stops were many.

In the fourth Franke took the penalty shot after Fort Bragg had fouled and made goal. Fleming threatened goal and Fisher eased one over. Bragg was down to 10-4. The game failed and the ball was played along the boards and in dead territory as the period ended in a tied score.

UNTO LEAD.
Furious play featured the fifth chukker, but the teams entered the sixth with the score still tied. At the opening of the final period Crane tried a penalty shot but was wide. Franke knocked in and followed up to send it along. He passed to Wing, who shot downfield. Franke came in again and passed to Biddle, who set it up for Wing to score. The ball was swept from midfield on the wing by Franke and Shubert. Franke backed to Shubert, who sent it over to score. Fleming drove downfield, but was intercepted. Franke carried the ball along and passed to Wing, who sent it to Biddle, and Franke came in to drive over the final goal.

The Governor's Horse Guards trimmed the 11th Field Artillery in six fast chukkers, 10-4, in the first game of the T. O. T. C. National Guard Tournament.

THE STARS.
Moran, the long-driving back, and the ever-versatile P. D. Christian were the working men in perfect record and in spite of the distance of the powerful shots of Buddy Coleman and his teammates they piled up the scores.

Coleman, who was a star in the Savannah lineup last season, proved his ability, but the team was unable to overcome the whirlwind attack of the guardsmen, who ran up a trio of goals in the opening chukker and came back in the second frame for two more.

George Graham, at 2 for the fourth while Love contributed one in the fifth and Christian and Moran each sent one in the final frame. Jones, at back for the Savannah team, played a fine game and accounted for two of the four goals of the visitors.

In the opening chukker Moran grabbed the ball on a toss-in and made a beautiful long shot for goal. Harper of the Savannah unit came in for a pretty run and rang up the first score for the visitors. Love backed to score for the guardsmen a few moments later, and Moran passed to P. D. Christian, who scored again as the period ended.

EVEN OFF.
In the second frame two vain guardsmen tries, Jones scored for Savannah. An artillery foul, however, was made good by Moran.

MRS. MOODY ATLANTA LOSES LAST ROAD TILT TO CHICKS, 8-4

Bobby Jones To Play Tonight; All Preparations Are Completed.

By Ralph McGill.

Atlanta and Birmingham will inaugurate night baseball at Spiller field tonight at 8 o'clock in what is expected to be the greatest baseball show ever put on in the city.

Night baseball, an accepted success in more than 50 per cent of organized baseball, is no longer an experiment but a practical and attractive success.

Practically all the opposition to the night game comes from those who have never seen one or who have other axes to grind.

FIRST INVASION.
The Crackers will be meeting the Barons here for the first time this year. The combination of night baseball and a Barons series is a magnet which will bring out the regular fans along with the new night crowd to witness a ball game under lights.

The night game is not a panacea for all the baseball ills. Rather, it will give all fans a chance to see the games. In a city which does not of Sunday baseball the night game is a new thing. Owners do not expect huge crowds at each of the night games. The attendance is expected to be substantially increased and a new crop of fans is expected to join the regulars.

The Crackers come home this morning from a road trip which has been more or less disastrous. The Crackers have played good baseball but the hitting has not come at the time when men were in scoring positions. The games lost have all been small score games with both teams battling on through the ninth with the issue in doubt all the way.

SHUTS SET.
As announced week ago when the club left on the road trip, Johnny Dobbs is expected to change his infield line-up. He has Bobby Jones, formerly of the Braves, to replace him at third for a trial. It is barely possible that Lamotte may be sent in at short for a time.

The Crackers pitching seems to have been good enough. The moan from John J. Dobbs, the man at the helm, is that the hitters are not hitting at the proper time. The hitting men are terrible.

The Crackers have the league's two best pitchers in Paul and Billie Carls, and yet they are hitting when the bases are open instead of when the sacks are filled with people eager to get home.

At any rate the Crackers have acquitted themselves with credit. Not once have they blown to hits and let the game slip away.

AND MAYBE—
It may be that at night the Crackers will play winning ball. Maybe the night game will be better and can be better at night when the power company lighting system on the job of lighting the stadium is in the hands of the city. The fans, however, will see a good ball game. And they will be able to follow the ball better at night than in the day. Baseball at night, if the weather is good, is much more attractive than the day game. The grass looks greener, the ball looks whiter and the action seems speeded.

Fans are asked to recall that each and every game usually has an error or so. The fact, seeing the first night game, is prone to blame the errors on the lights rather than the players.

PHOTOGRAPH OF LIGHTS.
There are plenty of lights at Spiller field. There are, for instance, more than twice as many as Grant field has and more than twice as many as the lights at the stadium have been played there successfully.

A number of notables will be present tonight. President John D. Martin, possibly an official of the Birmingham club, and other visitors are expected to witness the game.

Four umpires have been assigned here for the game. Spiller field is the first of the four major parks in the league to be lighted. Little Rock, Mobile and Nashville have their lights, possibly an official of the Birmingham club, and other visitors are expected to witness the game.

MRS. MOODY HELEN CANCELS CROWN DEFENSE

Mrs. Moody Decides Against Entering Wimbledon Tourney.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 24.—(AP)—Because it would keep her away from home for three and a half months, Helen Wills Moody decided today she would be unable to enter the English tennis championships at Wimbledon this year.

The announcement came after a family conference following persistent rumors of the past week that Mrs. Moody, winner of four English tournaments, would leave tomorrow for England.

"I greatly regret I will be unable to go to Wimbledon," she said, "but I feel that I would be away from home too long. I do hope, however, to be able to compete there next year."

Mrs. Moody said she did not definitely know until today that she would be unable to make the trip. Tennis equipment had been ordered for her in New York and was awaiting her arrival there en route to England.

She has practiced regularly here this year under the direction of Howard Kinsey, former internationalist and now an instructor here. Kinsey pronounced her at the peak of form and added that "we have corrected and strengthened her back stroke. Her game is sound in every department."

Mrs. Moody said she would enter the Wightman cup tournament this summer between English and American women stars, as well as the American national tournament at Forest Hills, N. Y., in August.

Reports that she would sacrifice her amateur standing to make a series of instructional motion pictures, following completion of her present tennis engagements, brought a denial from Mrs. Moody. She said there was no truth to the reports.

ARNOLD AND GULOTTA QUALIFY FOR CLASSIC

Arnold whirled his front-drive eight-cylinder sedan around the course for 10 miles at an average of 116.080 miles per hour, the fastest of the 19 drivers who have qualified to date.

The speed, however, will gain him only the third position in the sixth round of the starting lineup, the officials adhering to the rule that all entry in the race is on the basis of the time later. The trials began yesterday, when 17 cars were qualified.

Gulotta, driving a part-stock creation, sped over the bricks at an average of 117.725 per hour.

AUTO MARK IS MADE ON LOUISVILLE TRACK

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 24.—(AP) Ira Hall, Terre Haute, Ind., race driver, established a new track record to win the 15-mile feature race at the Kentucky motors speedway here this afternoon.

Driving a Frontenac, Hall averaged 61.55 miles an hour for the 15 miles.

WAITE AIDS FUND.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 24.—(AP)—More than 5,000 persons saw Carleton Waite, former U. C. L. A. distance runner, win the A. A. U. 10-mile district championship race today in 1:05:00.2 at a field day meet to raise funds for transportation of Scandinavian athletes to the 1932 Olympic games here.

STIB OPENS DRILL FOR CROWN FIGHT

GEAUGA LAKE, Ohio, May 24.—(AP)—W. L. "Young" Stirling, of Georgia, started formal training at his camp here today in preparation for his battle for the world's heavyweight championship against Max Schmeling in Cleveland, July 3.

Stirling worked two rounds against Battling Mims, Georgia negro, jumped the rope for two rounds and shadow boxed one round. He said he was only four or five pounds over his best fighting weight of 187.

TARZAN, LORD OF THE JUNGLE No. 91

In utter silence and darkness, Blake did not know how far he remained in the dark jungle beneath King Bohun's castle. It seemed years to him before approaching footsteps disturbed the dreadful mystery of that buried vault. Now, the flickering light of a pine torch was half blinding his eyes. But soon he was standing before him two knights. "Yes, 'tis he," said one. "Dost thou not know us, Sir Black Knight?" asked the other, after a pause.
